

A photograph of a woman's body, from the neck down to the waist, covered in a thick, dark red liquid, likely blood. She is lying on a light-colored, textured surface. Her right arm is raised, and her hand is open, showing the fingers. The background is a solid, bright red color.

Albrecht Giddings

Imitation Of Life

How The Hidden
Government Is Killing America

IMITATION OF LIFE

The more you begin to investigate what we think we understand, where we came from, what we think we're doing, the more you begin to see we've been lied to. We've been lied to by every institution. What makes you think for one minute that the religious institution is the only one that's never been touched?

The religious institutions of this world are at the bottom of the dirt. The religious institutions in this world are put there by the same people who gave you your government, your corrupt education, who set up your international banking cartels.

Because our masters don't give a damn about you or your family. All they care about is what they have always cared about and that's controlling the whole damn world.

We have been misled away from the true and divine presence in the universe that men have called god. I don't know what god is but I know what he isn't, and unless and until you are prepared to look at the whole truth, and wherever it may go, whoever it may lead to, if you want to look the other way or if you want to play favorites, then somewhere along the line you're going to find out you're messing with divine justice.

The more you educate yourself, the more you understand where things come from, the more obvious things become and you begin to see lies everywhere. You have to know the truth and seek the truth and the truth will set you free.

They must find it difficult..

Those who have taken authority as the truth,

Rather than truth as the authority

-G. Massey, Egyptologist

Because I gotta tell you the truth, folks, I gotta tell you the truth. When it comes to bullshit, big-time, major league bullshit, you have to stand in awe of the all-time champion of false promises and exaggerated claims - religion.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Think about it. Religion has actually convinced people that there's an invisible man living in the sky who watches everything you do, every minute of every day. And the invisible man has a special list of ten things he does not want you to do. And if you do any of these ten things, he has a special place, full of fire and smoke and burning and torture and anguish, where he will send you to live and suffer and burn and choke and scream and cry forever and ever 'til the end of time!

But He loves you.

He loves you, and he needs money! He always needs money! He's all-powerful, all-perfect, all-knowing, and all-wise, somehow just can't handle money! Religion takes in billions of dollars, they pay no taxes, and they always need a little more. Now, you talk about a good bullshit story. Holy Shit!

PART 1: THE GREATEST STORY EVER TOLD

The sun. As far back as 10 thousand B.C., history is abundant with carvings and writings reflecting peoples respect and adoration for this object. And it is simple to understand why as every morning the sun would rise, bringing vision, warmth, and security, saving man from the cold, blind, predator-filled darkness of night. Without it, the cultures understood the crops would not grow, and life on the planet would not survive.

These realities made the sun the most adorned object of all time. Likewise, they were also very aware of the stars. The tracking of the stars allowed them to recognize and anticipate events which occurred over long periods of time, such as eclipses and full moons. They in turn catalogued celestial groups into what we know today as constellations.

The cross of the Zodiac is one of the oldest conceptual images in human history. It reflects the sun as it figuratively passes through the 12 major constellations over the course of a year. It also reflects the 12 months of the year, the 4 seasons, and the solstices and equinoxes. The term Zodiac relates to the fact that constellations were anthropomorphized, or personified, as figures, or animals.

In other words, the early civilizations did not just follow the sun and stars, they personified them with elaborate myths involving their movements and relationships.

The sun, with its life-giving and life-saving qualities was personified as a representative of the unseen creator or god.

It was known as "God's Sun," the light of the world, the savior of human kind.

Likewise, the 12 constellations represented places of travel for God's Sun and were identified by names, usually representing elements of nature that happened during that period of time.

IMITATION OF LIFE

For example, Aquarius, the water bearer, who brings the Spring rains.

Horus. He is the Sun God of Egypt of around 3000 BC. He is the sun, anthropomorphized, and his life is a series of allegorical myths involving the sun's movement in the sky.

From the ancient hieroglyphics in Egypt, we know much about this solar messiah. For instance, Horus, being the sun, or the light, had an enemy known as Set and Set was the personification of the darkness or night. And metaphorically speaking, every morning Horus would win the battle against Set - while in the evening, Set would conquer Horus and send him into the underworld. It is important to note that "dark vs. light" or "good vs. evil" is one of the most ubiquitous mythological dualities ever known and is still expressed on many levels to this day.

Broadly speaking, the story of Horus is as follows:

Horus was born on December 25th of the virgin Isis-Meri.

His birth was accompanied by a star in the east, which in turn, three kings followed to locate and adore the new-born savior.

At the age of 12, he was a prodigal child teacher, and at the age of 30 he was baptized by a figure known as Anup and thus began his ministry.

Horus had 12 disciples he traveled about with, performing miracles such as healing the sick and walking on water.

Horus was known by many gestural names such as The Truth, The Light, God's Anointed Son, The Good Shepherd, The Lamb of God, and many others.

After being betrayed by Typhon, Horus was crucified, buried for 3 days, and thereafter resurrected.

These attributes of Horus, whether original or not, seem to permeate in many cultures of the world, for many other gods are found to have the same general mythological structure.

Attis, of Phrygia, born of the virgin Nana on December 25th, crucified, placed in a tomb and after 3 days, was resurrected.

Krishna, of India, born of the virgin Devaki with a star in the east signaling his coming, he performed miracles with his disciples, and upon his death was resurrected.

Dionysus of Greece, born of a virgin on December 25th, was a traveling teacher who performed miracles such as turning water into wine, he was referred to as the "King of Kings," "God's Only Begotten Son," "The Alpha and Omega," and many others, and upon his death, he was resurrected.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Mithra, of Persia, born of a virgin on December 25th, he had 12 disciples and performed miracles, and upon his death was buried for 3 days and thereafter resurrected, he was also referred to as “The Truth,” “The Light,” and many others.

Interestingly, the sacred day of worship of Mithra was Sunday.

The fact of the matter is there are numerous saviors, from different periods, from all over the world, which subscribe to these general characteristics. The question remains: why these attributes, why the virgin birth on December 25th, why dead for three days and the inevitable resurrection, why 12 disciples or followers?

To find out, let’s examine the most recent of the solar messiahs.

Jesus the Christ was born of the virgin Mary on December 25th in Bethlehem, his birth was announced by a star in the east, which three kings or magi followed to locate and adore the new savior.

He was a child teacher at 12, at the age of 30 he was baptized by John the Baptist, and thus began his ministry.

Jesus had 12 disciples which he traveled about with performing miracles such as healing the sick, walking on water, raising the dead, he was also known as the “King of Kings,” the “Son of God,” the “Light of the World,” the “Alpha and Omega,” the “Lamb of God,” and many others. After being betrayed by his disciple Judas and sold for 30 pieces of silver, he was crucified, placed in a tomb and after 3 days was resurrected and ascended into Heaven.

First of all, the birth sequence is completely astrological.

The star in the east is Sirius, the brightest star in the night sky, which, on December 24, aligns with the 3 brightest stars in Orion’s Belt. These 3 bright stars are called today what they were called in ancient times: The Three Kings.

The Three Kings and the brightest star, Sirius, all point to the place of the sunrise on December 25th. This is why the Three Kings “follow” the star in the east, in order to locate the sunrise — the birth of the sun.

The Virgin Mary is the constellation Virgo, also known as Virgo the Virgin. Virgo in Latin means virgin. The ancient glyph for Virgo is the altered “m”. This is why Mary along with other virgin mothers, such as Adonis’s mother Myrra, or Buddha’s mother Maya begin with an M.

Virgo is also referred to as the House of Bread, and the representation of Virgo is a virgin holding a sheaf of wheat. This House of Bread and its symbol of wheat represents August and September, the time of harvest.

In turn, Bethlehem, in fact, literally translates to “house of bread”. Bethlehem is thus a reference to the constellation Virgo, a place in the sky, not on Earth.

There is another very interesting phenomenon that occurs around December 25th, or the winter solstice. From the summer solstice to the winter solstice, the days become shorter and colder. From the perspective of the northern hemisphere, the sun appears to move south and get smaller and more scarce. The shortening of the days and the expiration of the crops when approaching the winter solstice symbolized the process of death to the ancients.

IMITATION OF LIFE

It was the death of the Sun.

By December 22nd, the Sun's demise was fully realized, for the Sun, having moved south continually for 6 months, makes it to its lowest point in the sky. Here a curious thing occurs: the Sun stops moving south, at least perceivably, for 3 days.

During this 3 day pause, the Sun resides in the vicinity of the Southern Cross, or Crux, constellation. And after this time on December 25th, the Sun moves 1 degree, this time north, foreshadowing longer days, warmth, and Spring.

And thus it was said: the Sun died on the cross, was dead for 3 days, only to be resurrected or born again. This is why Jesus and numerous other Sun Gods share the crucifixion, 3-day death, and resurrection concept. It is the Sun's transition period before it shifts its direction back into the Northern Hemisphere, bringing Spring, and thus salvation.

However, they did not celebrate the resurrection of the Sun until the spring equinox, or Easter. This is because at the spring equinox, the Sun officially overpowers the evil darkness, as daytime thereafter becomes longer in duration than night, and the revitalizing conditions of spring emerge. Now, probably the most obvious of all the astrological symbolism around Jesus regards the 12 disciples.

They are simply the 12 constellations of the Zodiac, which Jesus, being the Sun, travels about with. In fact, the number 12 is replete throughout the Bible. This text has more to do with astrology than anything else.

Coming back to the cross of the Zodiac, the figurative life of the Sun, this was not just an artistic expression or tool to track the Sun's movements. It was also a Pagan spiritual symbol, the shorthand of which looked like this.

This is not a symbol of Christianity.

It is a Pagan adaptation of the cross of the Zodiac.

This is why Jesus in early occult art is always shown with his head on the cross, for Jesus is the Sun, the Sun of God, the Light of the World, the Risen Savior, who will "come again," as it does every morning, the Glory of God who defends against the works of darkness, as he is "born again" every morning, and can be seen "coming in the clouds," "up in Heaven," with his "Crown of Thorns," or, sun rays.

Now, of the many astrological-astronomical metaphors in the Bible, one of the most important has to do with the ages. Throughout the scripture there are numerous references to the "Age." In order to understand this, we need to be familiar with the phenomenon known as the precession of the equinoxes. The ancient Egyptians along with cultures long before them recognized that approximately every 2150 years the sunrise on the morning of the spring equinox would occur at a different sign of the Zodiac.

IMITATION OF LIFE

This has to do with a slow angular wobble that the Earth maintains as it rotates on its axis. It is called a precession because the constellations go backwards, rather than through the normal yearly cycle. The amount of time that it takes for the precession to go through all 12 signs is roughly 25,765 years. This is also called the "Great Year," and ancient societies were very aware of this. They referred to each 2150 year period as an "age."

From 4300 B.C. to 2150 B.C., it was the Age of Taurus, the Bull. From 2150 B.B. to 1 A.D., it was the Age of Aries, the Ram and from 1 A.D. to 2150 A.D. it is the Age of Pisces, the age we are still in to this day. And in and around 2150, we will enter the new age. The Age of Aquarius.

Now, the Bible reflects, broadly speaking, a symbolic movement through 3 ages, while foreshadowing a 4th. In the Old Testament when Moses comes down Mount Sinai with the 10 Commandments, he is very upset to see his people worshipping a golden bull calf. In fact, he shattered the stone tablets and instructed his people to kill each other in order to purify themselves. Most Biblical scholars would attribute this anger to the fact that the Israelites were worshipping a false idol, or something to that effect.

The reality is that the golden bull is Taurus the Bull, and Moses represents the new Age of Aries the Ram. This is why Jews even today still blow the Ram's horn. Moses represents the new Age of Aries, and upon the new age, everyone must shed the old age. Other deities mark these transitions as well, such as Mithra a pre-Christian god who kills the bull, in the same symbology. Now Jesus is the figure who ushers in the age following Aries, the Age of Pisces, or the Two Fish.

Fish symbolism is very abundant in the New Testament, as Jesus feeds 5000 people with bread and "2 fish." When he begins his ministry walking along Galilee, he befriends 2 fishermen, who follow him. And I think we've all seen the Jesus-fish on the backs of people's cars. Little do they know what it actually means.

It is a Pagan astrological symbolism for the Sun's Kingdom during the Age of Pisces. Also, Jesus' assumed birth date is essentially the start of this age. At Luke 22:10 when Jesus is asked by his disciples where the next passover will be after he is gone, Jesus replies: "Behold, when ye are entered into the city, there shall a man meet you bearing a pitcher of water... follow him into the house where he entereth in." This scripture is by far one of the most revealing of all the astrological references. The man bearing a pitcher of water is Aquarius, the water-bearer, who is always pictured as a man pouring out a pitcher of water.

He represents the age after Pisces, and when the Sun (God's Sun) leaves the Age of Pisces (Jesus), it will go into the House of Aquarius, as Aquarius follows

IMITATION OF LIFE

Pisces in the precession of the equinoxes. All Jesus is saying is that after the Age of Pisces will come the Age of Aquarius.

Now, we have all heard about the end times and the end of the world. Apart from the cartoonish depictions in the Book of Revelation, the main source of this idea comes from Matthew 28:20, where Jesus says: "I will be with you even to the end of the world." However, in King James Version, "world" is a mistranslation, among many other mistranslations. The actual word being used is "aeon", which means "age." "I will be with you even to the end of the age." Which is true, as Jesus' Solar Piscean personification will end when the Sun enters the Age of Aquarius.

The entire concept of end times and the end of the world is a misinterpreted astrological allegory. Furthermore, the character of Jesus, being a literary and astrological hybrid, is most explicitly a plagiarization of the Egyptian Sun-god Horus. For example, inscribed about 3500 years ago, on the walls of the Temple of Luxor in Egypt are images of the enunciation, the immaculate conception, the birth, and the adoration of Horus. The images begin with Thaw announcing to the virgin Isis that she will conceive Horus, then Nef the holy ghost impregnating the virgin, and then the virgin birth and the adoration.

This is exactly the story of Jesus' miracle conception. In fact, the literary similarities between Horus and Jesus are staggering. And the plagiarism is continuous. The story of Noah and Noah's Ark is taken directly from tradition.

The concept of a Great Flood is ubiquitous throughout the ancient world, with over 200 different cited claims in different periods and times. However, one need look no further for a pre-Christian source than the Epic of Gilgamesh, written in 2600 B.C. This story talks of a Great Flood commanded by God, an Ark with saved animals upon it, and even the release and return of a dove, all held in common with the biblical story, among many other similarities.

And then there is the plagiarized story of Moses. Upon Moses' birth, it is said that he was placed in a reed basket and set adrift in a river in order to avoid infanticide. He was later rescued by a daughter of royalty and raised by her as a Prince. This baby in a basket story was lifted directly from the myth of Sargon of Akkad of around 2250 B.C. Sargon was born, placed in a reed basket in order to avoid infanticide, and set adrift in a river. He was in turn rescued and raised by Akki, a royal mid-wife. Furthermore, Moses is known as the Law Giver, the giver of the Ten Commandments, the Mosaic Law.

However, the idea of a Law being passed from God to a prophet on a mountain is also a very old motif. Moses is just a law giver in a long line of law givers in mythological history. In India, Manou was the great law giver. In Crete, Minos ascended Mount Dicta, where Zeus gave him the sacred laws. While in Egypt there was Mises, who carried stone tablets and upon them the laws of god were written.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Manou, Minos, Mises, Moses

And as far as the Ten Commandments, they are taken outright from Spell 125 of the Egyptian Book of the Dead. What the Book of the Dead phrased “I have not stolen” became “Thou shall not steal,” “I have not killed” became “Thou shall not kill,” “I have not told lies” became “Thou shall not bare false witness” and so forth. In fact, the Egyptian religion is likely the primary foundational basis for the Judeo-Christian theology. Baptism, afterlife, final judgment, virgin birth and resurrection, crucifixion, the ark of the covenant, circumcision, saviors, holy communion, the great flood, Easter, Christmas, Passover, and many many more, are all attributes of Egyptian ideas, long pre-dating Christianity and Judaism.

Justin Martyr, one of the first Christian historians and defenders, wrote: “When we say that he, Jesus Christ, our teacher, was produced without sexual union, was crucified and died, and rose again, and ascended into Heaven, we propound nothing different from what you believe regarding those who you esteem Sons of Jupiter.”

In a different writing, Justin Martyr said: “He was born of a virgin, accept this in common with what you believe of Perseus.” It’s obvious that Justin and other early Christians knew how similar Christianity was to the Pagan religions.

However, Justin had a solution. As far as he was concerned, the Devil did it. The Devil had the foresight to come before Christ, and create these characteristics in the Pagan world. Fundamentalist Christianity is fascinating.

These people actually believe the World is 12,000 years old. I actually asked one of these guys: “OK, dinosaur fossils?” He says: “Dinosaur fossils? God put those there to test our faith!”

“I think God put you here to test my faith dude!”

The Bible is nothing more than an astro-theological literary fold hybrid, just like nearly all religious myths before it. In fact, the aspect of transference, of one character’s attributes to a new character, can be found within the book itself.

In the Old Testament there’s the story of Joseph. Joseph was a prototype for Jesus. Joseph was born of a miracle birth, Jesus was born of a miracle birth. Joseph was of 12 brothers, Jesus had 12 disciples. Joseph was sold for 20 pieces of silver, Jesus was sold for 30 pieces of silver. Brother “Judah” suggests the sale of Joseph, disciple “Judas” suggests the sale of Jesus. Joseph began his work at the age of 30, Jesus began his work at the age of 30. The parallels go on and on.

Furthermore, is there any non-Biblical historical evidence of any person, living with the name Jesus, the Son of Mary, who traveled about with 12 followers, healing people and the like? There are numerous historians who lived in and around the Mediterranean either during or soon after the assumed life of Jesus. How many of these historians document this figure? Not one.

However, to be fair, that doesn’t mean defenders of the Historical Jesus haven't claimed the contrary. Four historians are typically referenced to justify Jesus's existence. Pliny the younger, Suetonius, Tacitus are the first three. Each one of their entries consists of only a few sentences at best and only refer to the Christus or the Christ, which in fact is not name but a title. It means the Anointed one. The fourth source is Josephus and this source has been proven to be a forgery for hundreds of years. Sadly, it is still cited as truth.

IMITATION OF LIFE

You would think that a guy who rose from the dead and ascended into Heaven for all eyes to see and performed the wealth of miracles acclaimed to him would have made it into the historical record. It didn't because once the evidence is weighed, there are very high odds that the figure known as Jesus, did not even exist. We don't want to be unkind, but we want to be factual. We don't want to cause hurt feelings, but we want to be academically correct, in what we understand and know to be true.

Christianity just is not based on truth. We find that Christianity was in fact nothing more than a Roman story, developed politically. The reality is, Jesus was the Solar Deity of the Gnostic Christian sect, and like all other Pagan gods, he was a mythical figure. It was the political establishment that sought to historize the Jesus figure for social control.

By 325 A.D. in Rome, emperor Constantine convened the Council of Nicea. It was during this meeting that the politically motivated Christian Doctrines were established and thus began a long history of Christian bloodshed and spiritual fraud. And for the next 1600 years, the Vatican maintained a political stranglehold on all of Europe, leading to such joyous periods as the Dark Ages, along with enlightening events such as the Crusades, and the Inquisition. Christianity, along with all other theistic belief systems, is the fraud of the age. It served to detach the species from the natural world, and from each other.

It supports blind submission to authority. It reduces human responsibility to the effect that "God" controls everything, and in turn awful crimes can be justified in the name of Divine Pursuit. And most importantly, it empowers those who know the truth but use the myth to manipulate and control societies.

The religious myth is the most powerful device ever created, and serves as the psychological soil upon which other myths can flourish. A myth is an idea that, while widely believed, is false. In a deeper sense, in the religious sense, a myth serves as an orienting and mobilizing story for people. The focus is not on the story's relation to reality but on its function. A story cannot function unless it is believed to be true in the community or the nation. It is not a matter of debate if some people have the bad taste to raise the question of the truth of the sacred story. The keepers of the faith do not enter into the debate with them. They ignore them, or denounce them as blasphemers.

It is wrong, blasphemous and sinful for you to suggest, imply or help other people to come to conclusion that the U.S. government killed 3,000 of its own citizens.

IMITATION OF LIFE

PART 2: ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE

The World Trade Center ...as if a demolition team set off, when you do the demolition of an old building. It looks like one of those scenes of an old building being purposely dynamited and blown up. Anybody who ever watched a building being demolished on purpose knows that if you're going to do this you have to get the under-infrastructure of the building and bring it down. The way the structure is collapsing,.. this was the result of something that was planned.

It's not accidental that the first tower just happened to collapse and then the second tower just happened to collapse in exactly the same way. How did they accomplish this, we don't know. The building collapsed to dust. You don't find a desk, you don't find a chair, you don't find a telephone or computer. The biggest piece of a telephone I found was half of the keypad, and it was about this big.

What happened to the concrete? The concrete was pulverized. Rivers and rivers of this dust powder, two or three inches thick. The concrete was just uh... pulverized! Reminiscence of pictures we've all seen too much in TV before, a building is deliberately destroyed by well placed dynamite to knock it down. It's as if they had detonators, yes, detonators, planted to take down the building, boom, boom, boom.

I heard a second explosion. There was a heavy-duty explosion. There was a secondary explosion and then a subsequent collapse. ...explosion blew and then it knocked everybody over. To me it sounded like an explosion. It sounded like gun-fire, bang-bang-bang. And then all of a sudden three big explosions. ...and we heard big explosions coming down. ...and then the entire top of the building just blew up. We saw some kind of explosion. ...by the force of the explosions... ...big explosion...it blew up back at the 8th floor... ...then we got to lobby, there was a big explosion.

The lobby looked as if a bomb had exploded there. ...huge explosion, now raining debris... ...there's been a huge explosion... ...huge explosion that we all heard and felt. We just witnessed some kind of explosion... ...it was very loud...it blasted...explosion... ...smoke and secondary explosion in Tower 1... ...there is another bomb going off... he thinks that there were actually devices that were planted in the building... ...planted in the building...

THE 9/11 MYTH

The "terrorists" , while evading the Air Defense System (NORAD), hit 75% of their targets. In turn, World Trade Towers 1, 2 and 7 collapsed due to structural failure through fire in a "pancake" fashion, while the plane that hit the Pentagon vaporized upon impact, as did the plane that crashed in Shanksville. The 911 Commission found that there were no warnings for this act of terrorism, while multiple government failures prevented adequate defense. “no warnings”

IMITATION OF LIFE

I don't think anybody could have predicted that they would try to use an airplane as a missile, a hijacked airplane as a missile. ...nobody in our government at least, and I don't think the prior government could have envisioned flying airplanes into the buildings. No specific threats involving, really domestic operations involving what happened obviously, the cities, airlines and so on. There were no warning signs that I am aware of.

USA Today reports that in the two years before the attacks on September 11th NORAD conducted exercises using hijacked airliners as weapons. And one target was the World Trade Center.

Cover of FEMA Response Manual, 1997

Operation “Mascal”, October 2000: Simulated a plane crash into the Pentagon. In confidential documents from the Philippines obtained by CNN, the plan was clear: He would board any American commercial aircraft, control its cockpit, and dive it on the CIA headquarters. Other buildings targeted - the Pentagon and the World Trade Center. Security and counter terrorism was blinking red, in the words of George Tenet, that the warnings of an imminent attack was so severe, that something dramatic should have been done. It was unparalleled.

Instead, our president went on a month long vacation! The head of Pakistani intelligence (ISI) Mahmood Ahmed requested Omar Sheikh to wire $100,000 to Mohammed Atta who was the lead hijacker. ...hijacker Mohammed Atta received wire transfers via Pakistan. The man sending the money to Atta is believed to be Ahmed Omar Saeed Sheikh. Omar Sheikh admitted he was supported by the Pakistani Government's intelligence service - the ISI. No inquiry was ever made as to why General Ahmad ordered $100K to be sent to Mohamed Atta. On the morning of September 11, government officials were having BREAKFAST with General Ahmad in Washington. The 911 Commission deemed the financing of the attacks was ‘of LITTLE significance’ in their official report.

Although we are told that 4 or 5 of the alleged hijackers were on each of the flights, if so their names should have been on the flight manifest. But the flight manifest that had been released contained neither the names of the alleged hijackers nor any Arab names whatsoever. We know that the men who were supposedly the hijackers had their houses, cars, credit cards paid for by the U.S. Government. They were, in truth - agents of the U. S. government.

Evidence was also apparently planted. The passport of one of the hijackers on flight 11 was allegedly found in the rubble. ...it goes through the fireball, through the side of the plane and comes down on the ground unscathed.

But something happened. For 6 months they reported they had this passport. We thought if we got it, we got the proof and then the guy stood up and was alive. Several of these 19 men are still alive. I couldn't believe it when the FBI put me on their list. They gave my name and my date of birth, but I am not a suicide bomber. I am here. I am alive. I have no idea how to fly a plane At least 6 of the “hijackers” are still alive.

IMITATION OF LIFE

The FBI has to this day not revised their list. No evidence has ever linked any of the alive or dead “hijackers” to Osama bin Laden. Osama Bin Laden. Of course we're after Saddam Hussein, I mean bin Laden, he's, he's, he's...

January 2001. The Bush Administration orders the FBI and intelligence agencies to back off investigations involving the bin Laden family, including two of Osama bin Laden's relatives who were living, guess where! - in Falls Church, Virginia right next to CIA headquarters.

When he was already America's “most wanted criminal” he reportedly spent two weeks in the American hospital in Dubai, was treated by an American doctor and visited by the local CIA agent. We have not seen one piece of evidence that links Osama bin Laden directly to the planning stages of September 11th. This failure to provide proof was later said to be unnecessary because bin Laden in the video allegedly found in Afghanistan admitted responsibility for the attacks.

This confession is now widely sided as proof. But the man in this video has darker skin, fuller cheeks and a broader nose than the Osama bin Laden of all other videos. We again seem to have the planted evidence.

In 1976 Osama's older brother Saleem bin Laden hired a man in Texas by the name of Jim Bath to handle all the investments in the United States for the bin Laden family. Jim Bath also happens to be a personal, almost life-long friend and former international guard pilot, with George W. Bush. The connections between the Bushes and the bin Ladens become much more clearer when George Herbert Walker Bush made trips to Saudi Arabia in 1998 and 2000 to meet with the bin Laden family on behalf of the company called the Carlyle Group.

George H. W. Bush was meeting with Osama's older brother, Shafiq bin Laden, on the morning of 9/11 in a Carlyle Group function. The Carlyle Group is one of the world's largest defense contractors, which continue to reap massive profits off of the post 911 “War on Terrorism” and Afghan/Iraq Wars.

Pentagon

How could anyone fly a 60 ton, 125 ft wide, 44 ft tall plane through this obstacle course? The aircraft before striking the Pentagon reportedly executed a 270 degree downward spiral and yet Hani Hanjour was known as a terrible pilot who could not safely fly even a small plane. “He didn't care about the fact that he couldn't get through the course” - Flight school employee. “I am still to this day amazed that he could have flown into the Pentagon... he could not fly at all.” - Flight school employee. No seats, no luggage, no bodies. Nothing but bricks and limestone. The official explanation is that the intense heat from the jet fuel vaporized the entire plane.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Flight 77 had two Rolls Royce engines made of steel and titanium alloy and weighed 6 tons each. It is scientifically impossible that 12 tons of steel and titanium was vaporized by jet fuel. We're also told that the bodies were able to be identified either by the fingerprints or by the DNA. So what kind of fire can vaporize aluminum and tempered steel and yet leave human bodies intact?

From my close-up inspection there's no evidence of a plane having crashed anywhere near the Pentagon and as I say the only pieces left that you can see are small enough that you can pick up in your hand. Shortly after the strike, government agents picked up debris and carried it off. The entire lawn was covered with dirt and gravel so that any remaining forensic evidence was literally covered up.

The videos from security cameras which would show what really hit the Pentagon were immediately confiscated by agents of the FBI. And the Department of Justice has to this day refused to release them. If these videos would prove that the Pentagon was really hit by a 757 most of us would assume the Government would release them.

Shanksville

It looks like there's nothing there except for a hole in the ground. Basically that's right. The only thing you could see from where we were a big gouge in the earth and some broken trees. You could see some people working, walking around in the area, but from where we can see there wasn't much left. Any large pieces of debris at all? No, there was nothing. Nothing, that you can distinguish that a plane had crashed there.

Commercial plane crash in Nigeria. Plenty of debris.

Flight 93 "Crash" in Shanksville. Nothing but a hole in the ground.

World Trade Center Towers 1, 2 and 7

Pancake theory according to which the fires, although not melting the steel, heated up sufficiently to cause the floors weakened by the airplane strikes to break loose from the steel columns, and this started a chain reaction. So, you would expect then from that theory, which is the official theory, to see a whole stack of floors piled up on top of each other and then a spindle of core columns standing too.

The core of each of the Twin Towers consisted of 47 massive steel columns. If the floors had broken loose from them, these columns would have still been sticking up in the air a thousand feet. The plane did not cut all those core columns.

We designed the buildings to take the impact of the Boeing 707 hitting the building at any location. The building probably could sustain multiple impacts of jetliners. ...that the plane flew straight into the building.

Straight through, right.

IMITATION OF LIFE

So you're saying that the building was actually designed to cope with a hole like that and would still survive?

Yes, it was.

If you would drop, say, a billiard ball from the top of the World Trade Center, 110 floors up there it would have taken 8 to 10 seconds to hit the ground encountering no resistance whatsoever. The Twin Towers came down in nearly free fall speed. This means that floors shattered at an average rate of about ten floors per second. There is no scenario for a pancake effect of buildings falling that allows them to fall at a rate of free fall.

And what can do that? What can move mass out of the way?

Explosives.

How do you get them to fail simultaneously so the core disappeared.

It looks like those core columns were cut.

The way we do this is by cutting the beam out at angle.

WTC core column after the collapse.

Notice the "cut" shape and the melted... or "Molten Metal".

I started looking at the molten metal.

All three buildings, both towers in the rubble, in the basement areas, and Building 7 there were these pools of molten metal. For well over 6 weeks after the collapse, hot spots of 2000F were documented in the debris.

That is 500F hotter than jet fuel even burns.

You get down below and you see molten steel. Molten steel running down the channels. Like you were in a foundry. Like lava of a volcano. The molten steel was found 'three, four and five weeks later, when the rubble was being removed'. He said that molten steel was also found at WTC7.

He said that molten steel was also found underneath World Trade Center 7. So I'm looking through the official reports, what do they say about the molten metal? They say nothing. Wait a minute. This is important evidence. Where did that come from?

Thermite is so hot that it'll just cut through steel, through the structural steel for example, like a knife through butter. The products are molten iron and aluminum oxide which goes off primarily as a dust. You know, there's enormous dust clouds you can imagine, when you assemble these chemicals on a large scale.

Through Electron Microscope Analysis of the melted WTC Steel and the iron-rich microspheres in the dust, Dr. Jones found exact traces of not only the "Thermite" explosive compound, but, due to the high sulfur content, "Thermate", a patented brand of Thermite used in the demolition industry. Molten metal pools were found under both towers after they collapsed, and Building 7.

Now, Building 7 wasn't even hit by a jet. Part of the problem is that most people simply don't know much about Building 7. due to the extraordinary secrecy surrounding its collapse. This was a 47 story skyscraper. This building fell at 17:25. It was not hit by a plane. This building had fires on only 2 or 3 floors. ...and it was brought down by what we know was a controlled demolition.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Demolitions look just like that, kink in the middle, and then that building just comes straight down almost at free fall speed. They first blow one of the central columns so the building falls in on itself. Building 7 had a classic crimp or wedge. Its central column was blown out first so it didn't structurally damaged buildings just a few feet away from it.

The Government's explanation for all three collapses was FIRE. NEVER before or after 9/11, has any Steel building collapsed from fire. Collapse characteristics of WTC 1, 2 and 7, fit the CONTROLLED DEMOLITION model EXACTLY. Oh Did I mention the sub-basement explosions? THAT OCCURRED SECONDS BEFORE THE FIRST PLANE HIT. Our office was on the B-1 level. As I was talking to a supervisor at 8.46 and all of a sudden we hear - BOOM! An explosion so hard that pushed us upwards.

And it came from the basement, between the B-2 level and the B-3 level. And when I went to report we heard - BOOM! That impact of the plane on the top. As I'm walking by the main freight car of the building in the corridor, that's when I got blown. I mean, the impact of the explosion threw me to the floor and that's when everything started happening. All of a sudden a big impact happened again and all the ceiling tiles were falling down, the light fixtures were falling.

You know, you gotta go clear across the hall from 1 to 2 World Trade Center and then all of a sudden it happened all over again. It was something else, hit us to the floor, right in the basement you felt it, the walls were caving in on everything that was going on. I mean, I know people that got killed in the basement, I know people that got broken legs in the basement, people got reconstructive surgery because the wall hit them in the face.

NORAD

According to standard operating procedure if an FAA flight control notices anything that suggests a possible hijacking, controllers are to contact the superior. If the problem cannot be fixed within about a minute the superior should ask NORAD (North American Aerospace Command) to send up or scramble jet fighters to find out what is going on. NORAD then issues a scramble order to the nearest air force base with fighters on alert. And although interceptions usually occur within 10 or so minutes, in this case 80 or so minutes had elapsed before the fighters were even airborne.

It's a mind-bending anomaly. Not a single US Air Force interceptor turns a wheel until it's too late. There are no jets at all. What if they were so confused, and had been so deliberately confused that they couldn't respond? The reason that they didn't know where to go was because a number of conflicting and overlapping war game exercises were taking place that involved the insertion of false radar blips on the radar screens in the north-east air defense sector.

IMITATION OF LIFE

FAA: "Hi, Boston Center TMU, we have a problem here. We have a hijacked aircraft headed towards New York. We need someone to scramble some F-16s or something up there, help us out."

NORAD: "Is this real world or exercise?"

There was another exercise - "Vigilant Warrior", which was, in fact, according to a NORAD source, a live-fly hijack drill being conducted at the same time. With only 8 available fighter aircrafts, and that have to be dispatched in pairs, they were dealing with as many as 22 possible hijacks on the day of 9/11 and they couldn't separate the war game exercises from the actual hijacks.

In 2000, NORAD had 67 intercepts. 100% accuracy. On 9/11 they failed 4 times in one day. On the morning of 9/11 he was in charge of all NORAD orders from the command bunker under the White House. In at least one of the many war games going on the morning of 9/11, planes being flown into building was a scenario.

Page 172:

"The US Government has not been able to determine the origin of the money used for the 9/11 attacks. Ultimately, the question is of little practical significance."

The American authorities have not managed to trace the source of the funding. And then the most amazingly disingenuous statement "ultimately is it of little consequence". It is of massive consequence! Doesn't it matter who paid for 9/11?

The collapse of Building 7 has been recognized as especially difficult to explain. The 9/11 Commission Report implicitly admitted that it could not explain the collapse of this building by not even mentioning it.

Mr. President, why are you and the Vice President insisting on appearing together before the 9/11 Commission?

Because the 9/11 Commission wants to ask us questions, that's why we are meeting, and I look forward to meeting with them and answering their questions.

The question was, why are you appearing together rather than separately, which was their request?

Because it's a good chance for both of us to answer questions that the 9/11 Commission is looking forward to asking us, and I am looking forward to answering them.

Do you think they should be able to stand up and speak their own words?

They should go under oath.

Yeah. In public.

When Bush and Cheney met with the 9/11 Commission, they did so only on their own terms. They appeared together. They were not under oath. No press or family members were allowed to attend. No recording of any kind was allowed. No transcript was allowed.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Don't you think that the families deserve to have a transcript or to be able to see witnessing?

Adam, you asked me this question yesterday, I got the same answer. (Next question).

The final report was a unanimous report. That means that if there was a single commissioner who had any objection about anything, that fact would be dropped from the report.

We have found out that he not only served on the transition team of the Bush Administration, that he was a person who wrote a draft memo for the setup of the Bush Administration's National Security Council, that he was an individual who wrote the pre-emptive war strategy that was eventually used for the war on Iraq, that he's a close friend of Condoleezza Rice, we want him to resign.

There is literally nothing in the 9/11 Report that the Bush Administration did not approve. We can understand therefore why that commission under Zelikow leadership would have ignored all the evidence that would point to the truth that 9/11 was a false flag operation intended to authorize the doctrines and funds needed for a new level of imperial mobilization.

Terrorism

Terrorism: 1) systematic use of terror, manifesting itself in violence or intimidation, for generating fear.... for generating fear...for generating fear.

Armed with knives. Armed with chemical, biological and nuclear weapons.

Fanatics. Terrorists. September 11th. September 11th. Killers.

September 11th. Terrorists. Terrorists. Al Qaeda. Terrorists.

Nuclear weapons. Terror. 9/11. Terror. Terror. Terror. Evil.

September 11th. September 11th. The terrorists. War and danger.

September 11th. Terrorism. Global terrorism. Terrorism. Terrorism.

Terrorist. Terrorist. Terrorist. Terrorist. The terrorists.

Terrorists. Terrorists. Terrorism. September 11th. Global terrorism.

Terrorism. Terrorism. Terrorists. September 11th. World terrorism.

Terrorists. Terrorism. September 11th. Global Terrorism.

September the 11th. Terrorist. Terrorist. Terrorist. Terrorist.

Terrorist. Weapons of mass destruction. September the 11th.

September the 11th. Terrorists. The evil terrorists. Terrorists. Terrorists.

Terrorism. The words are hypnotically repeated:

Terrorism. Terrorists. Terrorist threat. And of course, believe-to-be-linked-to-al-Qaeda. But, it's the so-called "War on Terrorism" that's in our faces practically 24/7 as the inescapable focus of our existence. One day our grandchildren will look back on this time and ask: "How was the War on Terror won?"

IMITATION OF LIFE

The entire US ruling class, the ruling elite, comes to see terrorism as the preferred means, indeed the only means, to provide social cohesion, to provide an enemy image for the society, to keep it together. According to neocon theory from Carl Scmitt, you have to have an enemy image in order to have a society.

A very dangerous thing because now it means that the entire social order, the political parties, intellectual life, politics in general are all based on a monstrous myth. Nearly all terror suspects detained are released without charges. ..but that's after they make it to the front page for you to see.

Terror Threat..

Bull Shit

Terrorism: 2) technique used by Governments to manipulate public opinion in order to further an agenda.

Look what the CIA has done in this country. What they have done to us is unbelievable. Look at the terrorist acts that have occurred. The CIA is behind most if not all of them. We had the Marine Barracks, then embassy in Kenya. We had Pan Am 103, we had the USS Cole, we had Oklahoma City, we had the World Trade Center in 1993. ...they helped the terrorists to blow up the WTC the first time. They built the bomb, they got the driver's license. The informer Emad A'Salem, a 43-year-old former Egyptian Army officer, he was given the assignment to put the bomb together and he went to the supervisor, that's the FBI supervisor, and he said, "we're gonna put a dummy bomb", and the FBI supervisor says "no, we're gonna put a real bomb."

The FBI actually carried out the attack on the World Trade Center in 1993. They actually hired Emad Salem and paid him 1 million dollars and gave him real explosives, a detonator and told him to build a bomb and to give it to the foolish people that he was controlling to allow them to attack the World Trade Center complex. Unfortunately for them, there were only six people killed, not enough to pass the legislation.

So , what happened is two years later, April 19, 1995 down comes Oklahoma City, the Murrah Building and the law which takes away many of our constitutional rights and civil liberties, is passed.

Three trains and a bus were bombed, killing 56 people. That morning, an "Anti-terror exercise" just happened to be taking place as well, dealing with...

THE EXACT SAME BOMBING SCENARIO.

AT THE EXACT SAME TRAIN STATIONS.

AT THE EXACT SAME TIME.

IMITATION OF LIFE

It was at half past 9 this morning.

We were actually running an exercise for a company of over a thousand people in London based on simultaneous bombs going off precisely at the railway stations where it happened this morning, so I still have the hairs on the back of my neck standing up right now.

To get this quite straight, you were running an exercise to see how you would cope with this and it happened while you were running the exercise?

Precisely.

Yeah... that's right.

THE EXACT SAME BOMBING SCENARIO.

AT THE EXACT SAME TRAIN STATIONS.

AT THE EXACT SAME TIME.

We're supposed to believe that these were some kind of coincidence.

There are no coincidences!

There was also an anti-terrorist drill going on on 7/7.

And again, just like on 9/11 they were talking about attacks on the same targets, the same tube stations at the exactly the same time as the actual attack happened providing some kind of cover for what must be operations orchestrating in some way by the States.

The 9/11 Truth

Criminal Elements within the US government staged a "false flag" terror attack on its own citizens, in order to manipulate public perception into supporting its agenda. They have been doing these for years. I am absolutely appalled about how much people in this country do not think. We are given to understand that an Arabic guy out there up in the mountains financed the most elaborate attack on this country.

Do you think some people in a cave were able to have NORAD stand down? Do you think that people in the cave were able to have all of this happen? And when I think about how many Americans were killed in New York City and believing as I do that this thing was a set up job, this is a textbook operation that Nazis used and they've used it over and over again. America has been suckered in one more time.

The world is coming apart at the seams like a cheap suit.

"I don't have to tell you things are bad. Everybody knows things are bad. The dollar buys a nickel's worth. Banks are going bust. Shopkeepers keep a gun under the counter. Punks are running wild in the street. There's nobody anywhere who seems to know what to do, and there's no end to it. We know the air is unfit to breathe and our food is unfit to eat. We sit watching our TVs while some local newscaster tells us that today we had 15 homicides and 63 violent crimes as if that's the way it's supposed to be! We know things are bad. Worse than bad. They're crazy. It's like everything everywhere is going crazy, so we don't go out anymore.

IMITATION OF LIFE

"We sit in the house and slowly the world we're living in is getting smaller. And all we say is, 'Please, at least leave us alone in our living rooms. Let me have my toaster and my TV, my steel-belted radials and I won't say anything. Just leave us alone.' Well I'm not gonna leave you alone. I want you to get mad! I don't want you to protest, I don't want you to riot. I don't want you to write to your congressman because I wouldn't know what to tell you to write. I don't know what to do about the depression and the inflation and the Russians and the crime in the street. All I know is that first you've got to get mad!

"You've got to say, "I'm a human being, goddamn it! My life has value!"

There's smoke - real bad - 105. Two tower. It's real bad, it's black, it's acrid. My wife thinks I'm all right. I called and said I was leaving the building. I was fine, and then BANG! Three of us - two broken windows.

Oh God!

We interrupt this program for a message from the President.

"Ladies and gentleman,

"The very word "secrecy" is repugnant in a free and open society, and we are as a people inherently and historically opposed to secret societies, to secret oaths and to secret proceedings. For we are opposed around the world by a monolithic and ruthless conspiracy that relies primarily on covert means for expanding its sphere of influence. On infiltration instead of invasion, on subversion instead of elections, on intimidation instead of free choice.

"It is a system which has conscripted vast human and material resources into the building of a tightly knit, highly efficient machine that combines military, diplomatic, intelligence, economic, scientific and political operations. Its preparations are concealed, not published. Its mistakes are buried, not headlined. Its dissenters are silenced, not praised.

"No expenditure is questioned, no secret is revealed. That is why the Athenian lawmaker Solon decreed it a crime for any citizen to shrink from controversy.

I am asking your help in the tremendous task of informing and alerting the American people. Confident that with your help man will be what he was born to be: free and independent."

PART 3: DON'T MIND THE MEN BEHIND THE CURTAIN

There is something behind the throne greater than the king himself. The world is governed by very different personages from what is imagined by those who are not behind the scenes. The real truth of the matter is that a financial element in the large centers has owned the government since the days of Andrew Jackson. as the American colonies sought to detach from England, and it's oppressive monarchy. Although many reasons are cited for the revolution, one in particular sticks out as the prime cause: that King George III of England outlawed the interest free independent currency the colonies were producing and using for themselves, in turn forcing them to borrow money from the Central Bank of England at interest, immediately putting the colonies into debt.

IMITATION OF LIFE

And as Benjamin Franklin later wrote:

The refusal of King George III to allow the colonies to operate an honest money system, which freed the ordinary man from the clutches of the money manipulators was probably the prime cause of the revolution.

In 1783 America won its independence from England. However, its battle against the central bank concept and the corrupt, greed-filled men associated with it, had just begun.

So what is a Central Bank?

A Central Bank is an institution that produces the currency of an entire nation. Based on historical precedent, two specific powers are inherent in central banking practice. The control of interest rates, and the control of the money supply, or inflation. The central bank does not simply supply a government's economy with money, it loans it to them at interest.

Then, through the use of increasing and decreasing the supply of money, the central bank regulates the value of the currency being issued. It is critical to understand that the entire structure of this system can only produce one thing in the long run:

Debt.

It doesn't take a lot of ingenuity to figure this scam out. Every single dollar produced by the central bank is loaned at interest. That means every single dollar produced is actually the dollar plus a certain percent of debt based on that dollar. And since a central bank has a monopoly over the production of the currency for the entire country, and they loan each dollar out with immediate debt attached to it.

Where does the money to pay for the debt come from? It can only come from the central bank again. Which means the central bank has to perpetually increase its money supply to temporarily cover the outstanding debt created, which in turn, since that new money is loaned out at interest as well, creates even more debt! The end result of this system without fail is slavery.

For it is impossible for the government and thus the public, to ever come out of the self-generating debt. The founding fathers of this country were well aware of this. "I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous than standing armies.. If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of currency.. the banks and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of their property until their children wake up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered.” -Thomas Jefferson, 1743-1826

IMITATION OF LIFE

“If you want to remain the slaves of the bankers and pay for the costs of your own slavery, let them continue to create money and control the nation’s credit.” - Sir Josiah Stamp

By the early 20th century, the US had already implemented, and removed a few central banking systems, which were swindled into place by ruthless banking interests. At this time, the dominant families in the banking and business world were: the Rockefellers, the Morgans, the Warburgs, the Rothschilds. And in the early 1900’s, they sought to push once again, legislation to create another central bank. However, they knew the government and public were weary of such an institution. So they needed to create an incident to affect public opinion.

So, J.P. Morgan, publicly considered a financial luminary at the time, exploited his mass influence by publishing rumors that a prominent bank in New York was insolvent, or bankrupt. Morgan knew this would cause mass hysteria which would affect other banks as well, and it did. The public, in fear of losing their deposits, immediately began mass withdrawals. Consequently the banks were forced to call in their loans, causing the recipients to sell their property, and thus a spiral of bankruptcies, repossessions, and turmoil emerged.

Putting the pieces together a few years later, Fredrik Allen of LIFE Magazine wrote: “The Morgan interests took advantage to precipitate the panic of 1907 guiding it shrewdly as it progressed.”

Unaware of the fraud, the Panic of 1907 led to a Congressional investigation, headed by Senator Nelson Aldrich, who had intimate ties to the banking cartels, and later became part of the Rockefeller family through marriage. The Commission led by Aldrich recommended a Central Bank should be implemented, so a panic like 1907 could never happen again. This was the spark the international bankers needed to initiate their plan.

In 1910, a secret meeting was held at a J.P. Morgan estate on Jekyll Island off the coast of Georgia. It was there that the central banking bill called the Federal Reserve Act was written. This legislation was written by bankers, not law-makers. This meeting was so secretive, so concealed from government and public knowledge, that the 10 or so figures who attended disguised their names in addressing each other.

After this bill was constructed, it was then handed over to their political front-man, Senator Nelson Aldrich, to push through Congress. And in 1913 with heavy political sponsorship by the bankers, Woodrow Wilson became President, having already agreed to sign the Federal Reserve Act in exchange for campaign support. And 2 days before Christmas when most of Congress was at home with their families, the Federal Reserve Act was voted in, and Wilson in turn made it law.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Years later, Woodrow Wilson wrote, in regret:

“(Our) great industrial nation is controlled by its system of credit. Our system of credit is privately concentrated. The growth of the nation, therefore, and all our activities are in the hands of a few men who, even if their action be honest and intended for the public interest, are necessarily concentrated upon the great undertakings in which their own money is involved and who necessarily, by very reason of their own limitations, chill and check and destroy genuine economic freedom. We have come to be one of the worst ruled, one of the most completely controlled and dominated, governments in the civilized world- no longer a government by free opinion, no longer a government by conviction and the vote of the majority, but a government by the opinion and the duress of small groups of dominant men.” -Woodrow Wilson

Congressman Louis McFadden also expressed the truth after the passage of the bill: “A world banking system was being set up here.. a superstate controlled by international bankers. acting together to enslave the world for their own pleasure. The Fed has usurped the government.”

Now, the public was told that the Federal Reserve system was an economic stabilizer. And inflation and economic crises were a thing of the past. Well, as history has shown, nothing is further from the truth. The fact is the international bankers now had a streamlined machine to expand their personal ambitions. For example, from 1914 to 1919, the Fed increased the money supply by nearly 100%. Resulting in extensive loans to small banks.

Then in 1920, the Fed called in massive percentages of the outstanding money supply, thus resulting in the supporting banks having to call in huge numbers of loans, and just like in 1907: bank runs, bankruptcy, and collapse occurred. Over 5400 competitive banks outside of the Federal Reserve System collapsed, further consolidating the monopoly to a small group of international bankers.

Privy to this crime, Congressman Lindbergh stepped up, and said in 1921: “Under the Federal Reserve Act, panics are scientifically created. The present panic is the first scientifically created one, worked out as we figure a mathematical equation.”

However, the panic of 1920 was just a warm-up. From 1921 to 1929 the Fed again increased the money supply. resulting once again in extensive loans to the public and banks. There was also a fairly new type of loan called a margin loan in the stock market. Very simply, a margin loan allowed an investor to put down only 10% of a stocks price, with the other 90% being loaned through the broker.

In other words, a person could own $1000 worth of stock with only $100 down. This method was very popular in the roaring 1920's, as everyone seemed to be making money in the market. However, there was a catch to this loan. It could be called in at any time, and had to be paid within 24 hours. This is termed a margin call, and the typical result of a margin call is the selling of the stock purchased with the loan.

IMITATION OF LIFE

So, a few months before October of 1929, J.D. Rockefeller, Bernhard Baruch, and other insiders quietly exited the market, and on October 24th, 1929, the New York financiers who furnished the margin loans started calling them in, in mass. This sparked an instantaneous massive sell-off in the market, for everyone had to cover their margin loans. It then triggered mass bank runs for the same reason, in turn collapsing over 16,000 banks, enabling the conspiring international bankers to not only buy up rival banks at a discount, but to also buy up whole corporations at pennies on the dollar.

It was the greatest robbery in American history. But that didn't stop there. Rather than expand the money supply to recover from this economic collapse, the Fed actually contracted it, fueling one of the largest depressions in history.

Once again outraged, Congressman Louis McFadden, a long-time opponent of the banking cartels, began bringing impeachment proceedings against the Federal Reserve Board, saying of the crash and depression:

“It was a carefully contrived occurrence. International bankers sought to bring about a condition of despair, so that they might emerge the rulers of us all.”

Not surprisingly, and after 2 previous assassination attempts, McFadden was poisoned at a banquet before he could push for the impeachment. Now, having reduced the society to squalor, the Federal Reserve bankers decided that the Gold Standard should be removed. In order to do this, they needed to acquire the remaining gold in the system.

So, under the pretense of helping to end the depression came the 1933 gold seizure. Under threat of imprisonment for 10 years, everyone in America was required to turn in all gold bullion to the Treasury, essentially robbing the public of what little wealth they had left. At the end of 1933, the gold standard was abolished. If you look at a dollar bill from before 1933, it says it is redeemable in gold.

If you look at a dollar bill today, it says it is legal tender, which means it is backed by absolutely nothing. It is worthless paper.

The only thing that gives our money value is how much of it is in circulation. Therefore the power to regulate the money supply is also the power to regulate its value, which is also the power to bring entire economies and societies to its knees.

“Give me control of a Nation's money supply, and I care not who makes its laws.” -M.A. Rothschild, Founder of Rothschild banking dynasty.

It's important to clearly understand: the Federal Reserve is a private corporation. It is about as “Federal” as “Federal Express.” It makes its own policies, and is under virtually no regulation by the US government. It is a private bank that loans all currency at interest to the government, completely consistent with the fraudulent central banking model that the country sought to escape from when it declared independence in the American Revolutionary War.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Now, going back to 1913, the Federal Reserve Act was not the only unconstitutional bill pushed through Congress. They also pushed the federal income tax. It's worthwhile to point out that the American public's ignorance towards the federal income tax is a testament to how dumbed-down and oblivious the American population really is.

First of all, the federal income tax is completely Unconstitutional, as it is a direct, unapportioned tax. All direct taxes have to be apportioned to be legal based on the Constitution. Secondly, the required number of states in order to ratify the amendment to allow the income tax was never met, and this has even been cited in modern court cases.

"If you examined 16th amendment carefully, you would find that a sufficient number of states never ratified that amendment." - U.S. District Court Judge James C. Fox, 2003

Third, at the present day, roughly 25% (35 is mistake) of the average worker's income is taken from them through this tax. That means you work three months out of the year to fulfill this tax obligation, and guess where that money goes. It goes to pay the interest on the currency being produced by the fraudulent Federal Reserve Bank, a system that does not have to exist, at all.

The money you make working four months out of the year goes almost literally into the pockets of the international bankers, who own the private Federal Reserve Bank.

And fourth, even with the fraudulent government claim as to the legality of the income tax, there is literally no statute, no law in existence, that requires you to pay this tax.

Period.

I really expected that of course there's a law, that you can point to in the law book that requires you to file a tax return. Of course there is. I was at that point where I couldn't find the statute that clearly made a person liable, at least not me, and most people I know, and I had no choice in my mind except to resign.

Based on the research that I did throughout the year 2000 and that I'm still doing, I have not found that law. I've asked Congress, a lot of people, we've asked the IRS Commissioner's helpers, they can't answer, because if they answer, the American people are gonna know that this whole thing is a fraud. I haven't filed a federal income tax return since I left. I have not filed a tax return since 1999.

The income tax is nothing less than the enslavement of the entire country. Now, the control of the economy and the perpetual robbery of wealth is only one side of the Rubik's Cube the bankers hold in their hands. The next tool for profit and control is war. Since the inception of the Federal Reserve in 1913, a number of large and small wars have commenced. The 3 most pronounced were World War I, World War II, and Vietnam.

IMITATION OF LIFE

WORLD WAR I.

In 1914, European wars broke out centered around England and Germany. The American public wanted nothing to do with the war, in turn President Wilson publicly declared neutrality. However, under the surface, the US administration was looking for any excuse they could find to enter it.

In a noted observation by Secretary of State William Jennings: "The large banking interests were deeply interested in the world war, because of the wide opportunities for large profits."

It's important to understand that the most lucrative thing that can happen for international bankers, is war. For it forces the country to borrow even more money from the Federal Reserve Bank at interest. Woodrow Wilson's top adviser and mentor was Colonel Edward House, a man with intimate connections with the international bankers who wanted in the war. In a documented conversation between Colonel House, Wilson's Advisor, and Sir Edward Grey, The Foreign Secretary of England, regarding how to get America into the war.

Grey Inquired:

"What will Americans do if Germans sink an Ocean Liner with American Passengers on board?"

House responded:

"I believe that a flame of indignation would sweep the united states and that by itself would be sufficient to carry us into war."

So, on May 7th 1915 on essentially the suggestion of Sir Edward Grey, a ship called the Lusitania was deliberately sent into German controlled waters where German Military Vessels were know to be. And, as expected, German U-boats torpedoed the ship, exploding stored ammunition, killing 1200 people. To further understand the deliberate nature of this setup, the German Embassy actually put advertisements in the New York times, telling people that if they boarded the Lusitania, they did so at there own risk, as such a ship sailing from America to England through the war zone, would be liable to destruction.

In turn and as anticipated, the sinking of the Lusitania caused a wave of anger among the American population and America entered the war a short time after. The 1st world war caused 323 000 American deaths. J.D. Rockefeller made about 200 million dollars off of it. Not to mention the war cost about 30 billion dollars for America, most of which was borrow from the Federal Reserve Bank at interest, furthering the profits of the international bankers.

IMITATION OF LIFE

WORLD WAR 2.

On December 7th 1941, Japan attacked the American fleet at Pearl Harbor, triggering our entry into that war. President Franklin D Roosevelt declared that the attack was a “day that will live in infamy”.

A day of infamy indeed, but not because of the alleged surprise attack on Pearl harbor.

After 60 years of surfacing information, it is clear that not only was the attack on Pearl Harbor known weeks in advance, it was outright wanted and provoked.

Roosevelt, whose family had been New York bankers since the 18th century, whose uncle Fredrik was on the original federal reserve board, was very sympathetic to the interests of the international bankers and the interest was to enter the war. And as we have seen, nothing is more profitable for international bankers, than war.

In a journal entry by Roosevelt’s Secretary of War Henry Stimson dated November 25th, 1941, he documented a conversation he had with Roosevelt:

“The question was how should we maneuver them into firing the first shot. It was desirable to make sure the Japanese be the ones to do this so that there should remain no doubt as to who were the aggressors.”

In the months leading up to the attack on Pearl Harbor, Roosevelt did everything in his power to anger the Japanese, showing a posture of aggression. He halted all of Japans import of American Petroleum. He froze all the Japanese assets in the United States. He made public loans to Nationalist China and supplied military aid to the British, both enemies to Japan in the war.. Which, by the way, is completely in violation of international war rules.

And, on December 4th, 3 days before the attack, Australian intelligence told Roosevelt about a Japanese task force moving towards Pearl harbor. Roosevelt ignored it. So, as hoped and allowed, on December 7th 1941 Japan attacked Pearl Harbor, killing 2400 soldiers. Before Pearl Harbor 83% of the American Pubic wanted nothing to do with the War. After Pearl Harbor, 1 million men volunteered for the war.

It is important to note, Nazi Germany’s war effort was largely supported by two organizations, one of which was called I.G. Farben. I.G. Farben produced 84% of Germany’s explosives and even the Zyklon B used in the concentration camps to kill millions. One of the unspoken partners of I.G. Farben was J.D. Rockefeller’s Standard Oil Company in America. In fact the German Air force could not operate without a special additive patented by Rockefeller’s Standard Oil. The drastic bombing of London by Nazi Germany for example was made possible by a 20 million dollar sale of fuel to I.G. Farben by the Rockefeller standard oil company.

IMITATION OF LIFE

This is just one small point about how America business funded both sides of World war 2. One other treasonous organization worth mentioning is the Union Banking Corporation of New York City. Not only did it finance numerous aspects of Hitler's rise to power, along with actual materials during the war, it was also a Nazi money laundering bank. Which was eventually exposed for having millions of dollars of Nazi Money in its vaults. The Union Banking Corporation of New York was eventually seized for violation of the Trading with the Enemy Act.

Guess who the director and Vice President of the Union Bank was. Prescott Bush, our current presidents Grandfather, and of course our former Presidents father. Keep that in mind when considering the moral and political dispositions of the Bush family.

VIETNAM.

The United States official declaration of war on North Vietnam in 1964, came after an alleged incident involving US destroyers being attack by North Vietnamese PT boats in the Gulf of Tonkin. This was known as the Gulf of Tonkin Incident. This single situation was the catalyst pretext for massive troop deployment and full fledged warfare.

One problem however. The attack on the us destroyers by PT boats.. never happened. It was a completely staged event to have an excuse to enter the war. Former Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara stated years later that the Gulf of Tonkin incident was a "mistake", while many other insiders and officers have come forward relaying that it was a contrived farce, a complete lie.

Once in the war, it was business as usual. In October 1966, president Lyndon Johnson lifted trading restrictions on the soviet block, know full well that the Soviets were providing upwards of 80% of North Vietnams war supplies. Consequently, Rockefeller interests financed factories in the Soviet Union, which the Soviets used to manufacture military equipment and send to North Vietnam.

However, the funding of both sides of this conflict was only one side of the coin. In 1985, Vietnam's Rules of Engagement were declassified. This detailed what American troops were and were not allow to do in the war. It included absurdities like: North Vietnamese anti-aircraft missile systems could not be bombed until they were known to be fully operational. No enemy could be pursued once they crossed the border of Laos or Cambodia. And most revealing of all, the most critical strategic targets were not allow to be attacked, unless initiated by high military officials.

Apart from these imposed ludicrous limitation, North Vietnam was informed of these restrictions and therefore could create entire strategies around the limitation of the American Forces. This is why the war went on so long and the bottom line is this: The Vietnam war was never meant to be won.. Just sustained. This war for profit resulted in 58000 American death and 3 million dead Vietnamese.

IMITATION OF LIFE

So, where are we now.

September 11th was the jumpstart for what is now an accelerating agenda by the ruthless elite. It was a staged war pretext no different than the sinking of the Lusitania, the provoking of Pearl Harbor and the Gulf of Tonkin lie. In fact if 9/11 wasn't a planned war pretext it would be an exception to the rule. It has been used to launch two unprovoked illegal wars. One against Iraq and one against Afghanistan.

However, 9/11 was the pretext for another war as well. The war against you. The patriot act, homeland security, the military tribunals act and other legislations, are all completely and entirely designed to destroy your civil liberties and limit your ability to fight back against what is coming.

Currently in the United states unannounced to most brainwashed Americans, your home can be searched without a warrant, with you being home, you can in turn be arrested with no charges revealed to you, detain indefinitely with no access to a lawyer and legally tortured. All under the suspicion that you might be a terrorist.

If you need a painted picture of what is happening in the country, let's recognize how history repeats itself.

In Feb 1933, Hitler staged a false flag attack, burning down his own German parliament building the Reichstag and blamed it on communist terrorists. Within the next few weeks he passed the Enabling Act, which completely eradicated the German constitution destroying people's liberties. He then began a series of preemptive wars all justified to the German people as necessary to maintaining homeland security.

"An evil exists that threatens every man woman and child in this great nation. We must take steps to ensure our domestic security and protect our homeland."

George Bush?

No, Adolf Hitler when announcing gestapo to the people.

On the matter of communism and its front organizations should not obscure the issues. Our enemy is a radical network of terrorists and every government that supports them. It's time to wake up.

The people in power go out of their way to make sure you are perpetually mislead and manipulated. The majority's perception of reality, especially in the political arena is not there own. It is shrewdly imposed upon them, without them even knowing it. For example, the public at large actually believe the invasion of Iraq is going badly, as sectarian violence doesn't seem to stop.

What the public fails to see, is that the destabilization of Iraq is exactly what the people behind the government want. This war is to be sustained, so the region can be divided up, domination of the oil maintained, continual profits reaped for the defense contractors and most importantly, permanent military bases established to be used as a launching pad against other oil bearing, non-conforming countries, such as Iran and Syria.

IMITATION OF LIFE

For further implication that the civil war and destabilization is purely intentional - In 2005, 2 elite British SAS officers were arrested by Iraq police after being caught driving around in their car shooting at civilians, while dressed up as Arabs.

After being arrested and taken to a jail in Basra, the British army immediately requested the release of these men. When the Basra government refused, British tanks came in and physically broke out the men from the Basra prison.

If you wish to destroy an area, how do you do it?

Well there are two ways - you can go in there and bomb it, and so forth, but that is not very efficient. What you do is try to get the people in that area to kill each other and to destroy their own territory, their own farms. And that's what has been done in that area. The way in which you destroy an opponent is get him to destroy himself, by dividing his ranks against one another. Then you feed both sides, you have agents feeding both sides, inflaming both sides. And they kill each other off. And it's time that some of us woke up to this reality.

To understand that people who try to maintain empires and create empires, do it by manipulating the people they are trying to conquer. You might ask yourself why the entire culture is utterly saturated by mass media entertainment from all sides, while the educational system in America continues its stupefying downward slide since the US government decided to take over and subsidize the public school system. What your government pays for it gets.

When we understand that, then we look at government financed institutions of education and see the kind of student and the kind of education that is being turned out by these government financed schools, logic will tell you that if what is being turned out in those schools was not in accord with what the state and the federal government wanted, then it would change it.

The bottom line is that the government is getting what they have ordered. They do not want your children to be educated. They do not want you to think too much. That is why our country and our world has become so proliferated with entertainments, mass media, television shows, amusement parks, drugs, alcohol and every kind of entertainment, to keep the human entertained. So that you don't get in the way of important people by doing too much thinking.

"You had better wake up and understand that there are people who are guiding your life and you don't even know it. We are in a lot of trouble! Because you people and 62 million other Americans are listening to me right now. Because less than 3 percent of you people read books. Because less than 15 percent of you read newspapers. Because the only truth you know is what you get over the tube.

IMITATION OF LIFE

“Right now there is a whole, an entire generation that never knew anything that didn’t come out of the tube. The tube is the gospel, the ultimate revelation. The tube can make or break presidents popes prime ministers.. The tube is the most awesome goddamn force in the whole godless world and woe is us, if it ever falls in the hands of the wrong people.

“And when the largest company in the world controls the most awesome goddamn propaganda force in the whole godless world, who knows what shit will be peddled for truth on this network! So you listen to me..listen to me: Television is not the truth. Television is a goddamned amusement park. Television is a circus, a carnival, a traveling troop of acrobats, story tellers, dancers, singers, jugglers side-show freaks, lion tamers And football players.

“We are in the boredom killing business. But you people sit there day after day night after night, all ages, colors, creeds.. We are all you know. You’re beginning to believe the illusions we are spinning here, you are beginning to think the tube is reality and your own lives are unreal. You do whatever the tube tells you. You dress like the tube, eat like the tube, raise your children like the tube, you even think like the tube.

“This is mass madness you maniacs. In god’s name you people are the real thing - we are the illusion! The last thing the men behind the curtain want is a conscious informed public capable of critical thinking. Which is why a continually fraudulent zeitgeist is output via religion, the mass media, and the educational system. They seek to keep you in a distracted, naive bubble. And they are doing a damn good job of it.”

In 2005 an arrangement between Canada, Mexico and the United States was made. This arrangement, unannounced to the public, unregulated by congress, merges the United States, Canada and Mexico into one entity, erasing all borders. It’s called the North American Union.

You might want to ask yourself why you have never heard of this. In fact, there is only one mainstream reporter who has actually heard of, and has had the courage to cover this issue. The Bush administration’s open borders policy and its decision to ignore the enforcement of this country’s immigration laws is part of a broader agenda.

President Bush signed a formal agreement that will end the United States, as we know it. And he took the step without approval from either the US congress, or the people of the United States. It’s a deal that few have even heard of. It’s been done again, by very few people, at the very top, on behalf of the investment class. But the working class of people, political officials across our country from communities and cities, they don’t know anything about this.

This isn’t some trade agreement. It is a total removal of sovereignty from these countries which will also result in a completely new currency called the

IMITATION OF LIFE

Amero. I think the one thing that people who are dollars based need to focus on is the Amero, that's the thing no one is talking about. I think it is going to have a big impact on everybody's life in Canada, the US and Mexico. The Amero is the proposed new currency for the North American Community, which is being developed right now between Canada the US and Mexico to make a borderless community much like the EU and the Dollar, the Canadian dollars and the Mexican Peso will be replaced by the Amero.

By default of this agreement, the American Constitution will eventually be obsolete. You would think that a situation like this would be on the cover or every major newspaper. That is until you realize the people behind this movement are the same people who are behind the main stream media and you are not told what you are not supposed to know.

The North American Union is the same concept as the European Union, the African Union and the soon to be Asian union and the same people are behind all of them. And when the time is right, the north American, union, the European union, the African union and the Asian union will be merged together, forming the final stages in a plan these men have been working on for over 60 years.

A ONE WORLD GOVERNMENT.

"We shall have World Government, whether or not we like it. The only question is whether World Government will be achieved by conquest or consent."

-Paul Warburg, Council on Foreign Relations / Architect of the Federal Reserve System

"We are grateful to the Washington Post, the New York Times, Time Magazine and other great publications whose directors have attended our meetings and respected their promises of discretion for almost 40 years. It would have been impossible for us to develop our plan for the world if we had been subjected to the lights of publicity during those years. But, the world is more sophisticated and prepared to march towards a world government. The supranational sovereignty of an intellectual elite and world bankers is surely preferable to the national auto determination practiced in past centuries.

-David Rockefeller, Council on Foreign Relations

One bank, one army, one center of power. And if we have learned anything from history. it is that power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely.

This is Aaron Russo, a filmmaker and former Politician. To his left is Nicholas Rockefeller of the infamous Rockefeller banking and business dynasty. After maintaining a close friendship with Nicholas Rockefeller, Aaron eventually ended the relationship, appalled by what he had learn about the Rockefellers and their ambitions.

I got a call one day from an attorney I knew and she said: "Would you like to meet one of the Rockefellers?" And I said: "Sure I would love to." We became friends and he began to divulge a lot of things to me, so he said to me one night, he said: "There's going to be an event, Aaron, and out of that event we are going to go into Afghanistan, so we can run pipelines from the Caspian Sea, we are going to go into Iraq to take the oil and establish a base in the middle east and we are going to go into Venezuela and get rid of Chavez."

IMITATION OF LIFE

The first 2 they have accomplished, Chavez they didn't accomplish. And he said: "You are going to see guys going into caves looking for.. looking for people they are never going to find." He was laughing about the fact that you have this war on Terror, and there is no real enemy.

He was talking about how by having this war on terror you can never win it, because it is an eternal war, so you can always keep taking peoples liberties away.

And I said: "How are you going to convince people that this war is real?"

And he said: "By the media.. the media can convince everybody that its real."

You just keep talking about things and saying them over and over and over again and eventually people believe it. You know, they create the Federal Reserve in 1913 through lies. They create 9/11, which was another lie. Through 9/11, then you are fighting a war on terror and all the sudden you go into Iraq, which was another lie, and now they are going to do Iran.

It's all one thing leading to another, leading to another, leading to another.. I would say to him: "What are you doing this for? What's the point of this thing? You have all the money in the world you would ever want, you have all the power, you're hurting people. It's not a good thing."

And he would say: "What do you care about the people for? Take care of yourself and take care of your family".

And then I said: "So what are the ultimate goals here?"

He said: "The ultimate goal is to get everyone in this world chipped with an RFID chip. And have all money be on those chips and have everything on those chips, and if anyone wants to protest what we do or violate what we want, we can just turn off their chips."

That's right - micro chipped.

In 2005, congress under the pretense of immigration control and the so called war on terrorism, passed the Real ID act, under which it is projected by May 2008, you will be required to carry around a Federal Identification card which includes on it a scannable bar code with you personal information. However this barcode is only an intermediary step, before the card is equipped with a VeriChip RFID tracking Module, which will use radio frequencies to track your every move on the planet.

If this sounds foreign to you, please note that the RFID tracking chip is already in all new American (and also European) passports. And the final step is the implanted chip, which many people have already been manipulated into accepting under different pretenses.

IMITATION OF LIFE

We have a Florida family who are really pioneers in a brave new world. They have volunteer to be the first ever to have microchip identification devices implanted into their bodies.

After 9/11 I was really concerned with the security of my family. I wouldn't mind having something planted permanently in my arm, that would identify me.

In the end, everybody will be locked into a monitored control grid, where every single action you perform is documented, and if you get out of line, they can just turn off your chip, for at that point in time, every single aspect of society will revolve around interactions with the chips.

This is the picture that is painted for the future if you open your eyes to see it. A centralized one world economy where everyone's moves and everyone transactions are tracked and monitored. All rights removed.

The most incredible aspect of all: These totalitarian elements will not be forced upon the people, the people will demand them. For the social manipulation of society through the generation of fear and division has completely detached human from their sense of power and reality. A process, which has been going on for centuries if not millennia.

Religion, Patriotism, Race, Wealth, Class, and every other form of arbitrary separatist identification and thus conceit, has served to create a controlled population, utterly malleable in the hands of the few.

Divide and Conquer is the motto, and as long as people continue to see themselves as separate from everything else, they lend themselves to being completely enslaved. The men behind the curtain know this. And they also know, that if people ever realize the truth of their relationship to nature, and the truth of their personal power.. The entire manufactured Zeitgeist they prey upon, will collapse like a house of cards..

The whole system that we live in, drilled into us that we are powerless, that we are weak, that society is evil, that it's crime ridden and so forth. It is all a big fat lie! We are powerful, beautiful, extraordinary.

There is no reason why we cannot understand who we truly are where we are going. There is no reason why the average individual cannot be fully empowered. We are incredibly power beings. I think I spent 30 years of my life, the first 30 trying to become something. I wanted to become good at things, I wanted to become good at tennis and school and grades. And everything I kinda viewed in that perspective, I'm not okay the way I am, but if I got good at things.. I realized that I had the game wrong. Because the game was to find out what I already was. Now, in our culture we have been trained for individual differences to stand out.

IMITATION OF LIFE

So you look at each person and the immediate he is Brighter, dumber, older, younger, richer poorer.. And we make all these dimensional distinctions, put them in categories and treat them that way. And get so we only see others as separate from ourselves in the ways in which they are separate. And one of the dramatic characteristics of experience is being with another person and suddenly seeing the ways in which they are like you, not different from you.

And experiencing the fact that which is essence in you, which is essence in me is, indeed, one. The understanding that there is no other. It is all one. I wasn't born Richard Albert, I was just born as a human being and then I learn this whole business of who I am, whether I'm good or bad, achieving or not.. All that's learned along the way.

We will see how very important it is to bring about, in the human mind, the radical revolution. The crisis, is a crisis of consciousness. A crisis that cannot anymore, accept the old norms, the old patterns, the ancient traditions. And, considering what the world is now, with all the misery, conflict, destructive brutality, aggression, and so on...

Man is still as he was. Is still brutal, violent, aggressive, acquisitive, competitive. And, he's built a society along these lines. - J. Krishnamurti

It is no measure of health to be well adjusted to a profoundly sick society. - J. Krishnamurti

Society today, is composed of a series of institutions. From political institutions, legal institutions, religious institutions. To institutions of social class, familiar values, and occupational specialization. It is obvious, the profound influence these traditionalized structures have in shaping our understandings and perspectives.

Yet, of all the social institutions, we are born into, directed by, and conditioned upon.. There seems to be no system as taken for granted, and misunderstood, as the monetary system. Taking on nearly religious proportions, the established monetary institution exists as one of the most unquestioned forms of faith there is.

How money is created, the policies by which it is governed, and how it truly affects society, are unregistered interests of the great majority of the population. In a world where 1% of the population owns 40% of the planets wealth. In a world where 34.000 children die every single day from poverty and preventable diseases, and, where 50% of the world's population lives on less than 2 dollars a day...

One thing is clear. Something is very wrong. And, whether we are aware of it or not, the lifeblood of all of our established institutions, and thus society itself, is money.

Therefore, understanding this institution of monetary policy is critical to understanding why our lives are the way they are. Unfortunately, economics is often viewed with confusion and boredom. Endless streams of financial jargon, coupled with intimidating mathematics, quickly deters people from attempts at understanding it.

IMITATION OF LIFE

However, the fact is: The complexity associated with the financial system is a mere mask. Designed to conceal one of the most socially paralyzing structures, humanity has ever endured. None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free. -Johann Wolfgang von Goethe- 1749-1832

A number of years ago, the central bank of the United States, the Federal Reserve, produced a document entitled "Modern Money Mechanics". This publication detailed the institutionalized practice of money creation as utilized by the federal reserve and the web of global commercial banks it supports. On the opening page the document states its objective. The purpose of this booklet is to describe the basic process of money creation in a fractional reserve banking system.

It then precedes to describe this fractional reserve process through various banking terminology. A translation of which goes something like this. The united states government decides it needs some money. So it calls up the federal reserve and requests say 10 billion dollars.

The FED replies saying: "sure, we'll buy ten billion in government bonds from you". So the government takes some pieces of paper, paints some official looking designs on them, and calls them treasury bonds. Then it puts a value on these bonds to the sum of 10 billion dollars and sends them over to the FED.

In turn the people of the FED drop a bunch of impressive pieces of papers themselves. Only this time, calling them federal reserve notes. Also designating a value of ten billion dollars to the set. The FED then takes these notes and trades them for the bonds.

Once this exchange is complete, the government then takes the ten billion in federal reserve notes, and deposits it into an bank account. And, upon this deposit the paper notes officially become legal tender money. Adding ten billion to the US money supply.

And there it is! Ten billion in new money has been created. Of course, this example is a generalization. For, in reality, this transaction would occur electronically. With no paper used at all. In fact, only three percent of US money supply exists in physical currency. The other 97 percent essentially exists in computers alone.

Now, government bonds are by design instruments of debt. And when the FED purchases these bonds with money it essentially created out of thin air, the government is actually promising to pay back that money to the FED.

In other words, the money was created out of debt. This mind numbing paradox, of how money or value can be created out of debt, or a liability, will become more clear as we further this exercise.

IMITATION OF LIFE

So, the exchange has been made. And now, ten billion dollars sits in a commercial bank account. Here is where it gets really interesting. For, as based on the fractional reserve practice, that ten billion dollar deposit instantly becomes part of the banks reserves. Just as all deposits do.

And, regarding reserve requirements as stated in “Modern Money Mechanics”: “A bank must maintain legally required reserves equal to a prescribed percentage of its deposits”. It then quantifies this by stating: “Under current regulations, the reserve requirement against most transaction accounts is ten percent.”

This means that with a ten billion dollar deposit, ten percent, or one billion, is held as the required reserve. While the other nine billion is considered an excessive reserve, and can be used as the basis for new loans.

Now, it is logical to assume, that this nine billion is literally coming out of the existing ten billion dollar deposit. However, this is actually not the case. What really happens, is that the nine billion is simply created out of thin air on top of the existing 10 billion dollar deposit. This is how the money supply is expanded.

As stated in “Modern Money Mechanics”: “Of course they” the banks, “do not really pay out loans for the money, they receive as deposits. If they did this, no additional money would be created. What they do when they make loans is to accept promissory notes - loan contracts in exchange for credits - money to the borrowers transaction accounts.

In other words, the nine billion can be created out of nothing. Simply because there is a demand for such a loan, and that there is a 10 billion dollar deposit to satisfy the reserve requirements.

Now let's assume that somebody walks into this bank and borrows the newly available nine billion dollars. They will then most likely take that money and deposit it into their own bank account. The process then repeats. For that deposit becomes part of the banks reserves.

Ten percent is isolated and in turn 90 percent of the nine billion, or 8.1 billion is now available as newly created money for more loans. And, of course, that 8.1 can be loaned out and redeposited creating an additional 7.2 billion to 6.5 billion... to 5.9 billion... etc... This deposit money creation loan cycle can technically go on to infinity.

The average mathematical result is that about 90 billion dollars can be created on top of the original 10 billion. In other words: For every deposit that ever occurs in the banking system, about nine times that amount can be created out of thin air. Money-jitters. Ask the obliging Bank of America for a jar of soothing instant money. M-O-N-E-Y in the form of a convenient personal loan.

So, now that we understand how money is created by this fractional reserve banking system. A logical yet illusive question might come to mind: What is actually giving this newly created money value? The answer: the money that already exists. The new money essentially steals value from the existing money supply. For the total pool of money is being increased irrespective to demand for goods and services. And, as supply and demand defines equilibrium, prices rise, diminishing the purchasing power of each individual dollar.

IMITATION OF LIFE

This is generally referred to as inflation. And inflation is essentially a hidden tax on the public. What is the advice that you generally get? That is, inflate the currency. They don't say: debase the currency. They don't say: devalue the currency. They don't say: Cheat the people who are safe, they say lower the interest rates. The real deception is when we distort the value of money.

When we create money out of thin air, we have no savings. Yet there is so called "capital". So, my question boils down to this: How in the world can we expect to solve the problems of inflation. That is: increase in the supply of money, with more inflation. Of course it can't.

The fractional reserve system of monetary expansion is inherently inflationary. For the act of expanding the money supply, without there being a proportional expansion of goods and services in the economy, will always debase a currency. In fact, the quick glance of the historical values of the US dollar, versus the money supply, reflects this point of definitively.

For inverse relationship is obvious. One dollar in 1913 required $21.60 in 2007 to match value. That is a 96 percent devaluation since the Federal Reserve came into existence. Now, if this reality of inherent and perpetual inflation seems absurd and economically self defeating.

Hold that thought. For absurdity is an understatement in regard to how our financial system really operates. For in our financial system money is debt, and debt is money. Here is a chart of the US money supply from 1950 to 2006. Here is a chart to the US national debt for the same period. How interesting it is, that the trends are virtually the same. For the more money there is the more debt there is. The more debt there is the more money there is.

To put it a different way. Every single dollar in your wallet is owed to somebody by somebody. For remember: the only way the money can come in to existence is from loans. Therefore, if everyone in the country were able to pay off all debts including the government, there would not be one dollar in circulation.

"If there were no debts in our money system, there wouldn't be any money."Marriner Eccies - Governor of the Federal Reserve, September 30th, 1941.

In fact, the last time in American history the national debt was completely paid off was in 1835 after president Andrew Jackson shut down the central bank that preceded the Federal Reserve. In fact, Jackson's entire political platform essentially revolved around his commitment to shut down the central bank.

Stating that one point: "The bold efforts the present bank was made to control the government... are but premonitions of the fate that awaits the American people should they be deluded into a perpetuation of this institution or, the establishment of another like it.”

IMITATION OF LIFE

Unfortunately this message was short lived. And the international bankers succeeded to install another central bank in 1913, the Federal Reserve. And as long as this institution exists perpetual debt is guaranteed.

Now, so far we have discussed the reality that money is created out of debt through loans. These loans are based on a banks reserves, and reserves are derived from deposits. And through this fractional reserve system, any one deposit can create 9 times its original value. In turn, debasing the existing money supply raising prices in society. And, since all this money is created out of debt, and circulated randomly through commerce, people become detached from their original debt.

And a disequilibrium exists where people are forced to compete for labor in order to pull enough money out of the money supply to cover their costs of living.

As dysfunctional and backwards as all of this might seem, there is still one thing we have omitted from this equation. And it is this element of the structure which reveals the truly fraudulent nature of the system itself. The application of interest. When the government borrows money from the FED, or when a person borrows money from a bank, it almost always has to be paid back with a crude interest. In other words, almost every single dollar that exists must be eventually returned to a bank with interest payed as well.

But, if all money is borrowed from the Central Bank, and is expanded by commercial banks through loans, only what would be referred to as the “principal” is been created in the money supply. So then, where is the money to cover all of the interest that is charged? Nowhere. It doesn't exist.

The ramifications of this are staggering. For the amount of money owed back to the banks will always exceed the amount of money that is available in circulation. This is why inflation is a constant in the economy. For new money is always needed to help cover the perpetual deficit build in to the system. Caused by the need to pay the interest.

What this also means, is that mathematically the defaults and bankruptcy are literally built into the system. And there will always be poor pockets of society that get the short end of the stick. An analogy would be a game of musical chairs: For the once music stops, somebody is left out to dry. And that is the point.

It invariably transfers true wealth for the individual to the banks. For, if you are unable to pay for your mortgage, they will take your property. This is particularly enraging when you realize, that not only is such a default inevitable due to the fractional reserve practice. But, also because of the fact that the money that the bank loaned to you didn't even legally exist in the first place.

IMITATION OF LIFE

In 1969 there was a Minnesota court case involving a man named Jerome Daly who was challenging the foreclosure of his home by the bank, which provided the loan to purchase it. His argument was that the mortgage contract required both parties, being he and the bank, each put up a legitimate form of property for the exchange. In legal language this is called consideration [a contract's basis. A contract is founded on an exchange of one form of consideration for another.]

Mr. Daly explained that the money was, in fact, not the property of the bank. For it was created out of nothing as soon as the loan agreement was signed. Remember what "Modern Money Mechanics" stated about loans?

What they do, when they make loans, is to accept promissory notes in exchange for credits. Reserves are unchanged by the loan transactions. But, deposit credits constitute new additions to the total deposits of the banking system. In other words, the money doesn't come out of their existing assets. The bank is simply inventing it, putting up nothing of its own, except for a theoretical liability on paper.

As the court case progressed, the bank's president Mr. Morgan took the stand. And in the judge's personal memorandum, he recalled that the Plaintiff - banks president - admitted that, in combination with the Federal Reserve Bank, did create the money and credits upon its books by bookkeeping entry.

The money and credit first came into existence when they created it. Mr. Morgan admitted that no United States Law or Statute existed which gave him the right to do this. A lawful consideration must exist and be tendered to support the Note. The Jury found that there was no lawful consideration, and I agree.

He also poetically added, "Only God can create something of value out of nothing".

And, upon this revelation the court rejected the bank's claim for foreclosure, and Daly kept his home. The implications of this court decision are immense. For every time you borrow money from a bank, whether it is a mortgage loan or a credit card charge, the money given to you is not only counterfeit, it is a illegitimate form of consideration and hence, voids the contract to repay. For the bank never had the money as property to begin with.

Unfortunately such legal realizations are suppressed and ignored. And the game of perpetual wealth transfer and perpetual debt continues. And this brings us to the ultimate question: Why?

During the American Civil War President Lincoln bypassed the high interest loans offered by the European banks, and decided to do what the founding fathers advocated. Which was to create an independent and inherently debt-free currency. It was called "The Greenback".

IMITATION OF LIFE

Shortly after this measure was taken, an internal document circulated between private British and American banking interests, stated: "Slavery is but the owning of labor and carries with it the care of the laborers, while the European plan..is that capital shall control labor by controlling wages."

This can be done by controlling the money. It will not do to allow the Greenback... as we cannot control that. The fractional reserve policy, perpetrated by the Federal Reserve which has spread in practice to the great majority of banks in the world, is in fact a system of modern slavery.

Think about it, money is created out of debt. What the people do when they are in debt? They submit to employment to pay it off. But if money only can only be created out of loans, how can society ever be debt free? It can't, and that's the point.

And it is the fear of losing assets, coupled with the struggle to keep up, with the perpetual debt and inflation inherent in the system compounded by the inescapable scarcity, within in the money supply itself, created by the interest that can never be repaid. that keeps the wage-slave in line, running on a hamster wheel, with millions of others. In effect, powering an empire that truly benefits only the elite at the top of the pyramid. For, at the end of the day, who are you really working for? The Banks!

Money is created in the bank, and invariably ends up in a bank. They are the true masters, along with the corporations and governments they support. Physical slavery requires people to be housed and fed. Economic slavery requires people to feed and house themselves. It is one of the most ingenious scams for social manipulation ever created.

And at its core, it is an invisible war against the population. Debt is the weapon used to conquer and enslave societies, and interest is its prime ammunition. And, as the majority walks around oblivious to this reality, the banks in collusion with governments and corporations continued to perfect and expand their tactics of economic warfare. Spawning new bases, such as the World Bank and International Monetary Fund [IMF], while also inventing a new type of soldier.

The birth of the economic hitman. There are two ways to conquer and enslave a nation. One is by sword. The other is by debt.

John Adams - 1735-1826

The economic hitmen really have been the ones responsible for creating this first truly global empire. And we work many different ways. But, perhaps the most common is that we will identify a country that has resources, like oil. And then, arrange a huge loan to that country from the World Bank or one of it's sister organizations. But the money never actually goes to that country. Instead it goes to our big corporations to build infrastructure projects in that country. Power plants, Industrial parks, Ports... Things that benefit a few rich people in that country. In addition our Corporations.

IMITATION OF LIFE

But really don't help the majority to people at all. However, those people, the whole country, is left holding the huge debt. It's such a big debt they can't repay, and that's the part of the plan... They can't repay it! And so, at some point, the economic hitman, goes back to them and says, "Listen"

"You lost a lot of Money. Can't pay your Debt. So..."

"Sell your oil."

"Real cheap to our oil companies"

"Allow us to build a Military Base in your Country..."

"Send troops and support one of our's, to some place in the world like..."

"Iraq or vote with us on the next U.N."

Vote, to have their electric utility company privatized and their water and sewing system privatized and sold to US corporations or other multinational corporations.

So there is a whole mushrooming thing, and it's so typical, the way the IMF and the World Bank work. They put a country in debt, and it's such a big debt they can't repay it! And then they offer to refinance that debt, and pay them more interest. And you demand... this "quid pro quo" what you call a conditionality or good governance which means basically, that they have to sell off their resources, including many of their social services, their utility companies.. their school systems sometimes, their penal systems, their insurance systems... to foreign corporations.

So it's a double - triple - quadruple whammie! The concept for the Economic Hitman really began back in the early 50's when democratically elected "Mossadegh" who was elected in Iran... He was considered to be "The hope for Democracy" in the middle east or around the world. He was Time-Magazine's man of the year. But... one of the things that he brought on to end the implementation was the idea that foreign oil companies needed to pay the Iranian people a lot more for the oil that they were taking out of Iran and the Iranian people should benefit from their own oil. - Strange policy - we didn't like that of course, but we were afraid to do what we normally were doing, which was to send in the military; instead we sent in one CIA agent, Kermit Roosevelt, Teddy Roosevelt's relative.

And Kermit went in with a few million dollars, and was very very effective and efficient and in a short amount of time, he managed to get Mossadegh overthrown, and brought in the Shah of Iran to replace him, who always was favorable to oil, and it was extremely effective.

Revolt in Iran. Mobs overran Tehran. Army officers shout that Mossadegh has surrendered and his regime as virtual dictator of Iran has ended. Pictures of the Shah are paraded through the streets as sentiment reverses. The Shah is welcomed home. So back here in the United States, in Washington, people looked around and said “wow, that was easy and cheap”.

IMITATION OF LIFE

So this established the whole new way, of manipulating countries, of creating empire. The only problem with Roosevelt was that he was a card carrying CIA agent and if he'd been caught, the ramifications could have been pretty serious, so very quickly at that point, the decision was made to use private consultants to channel the money through the world bank or the IMF or one of the other such agencies to bring in people like me, who work for private companies so that if we got caught, there would be no government ramifications.

When Arbenz became president of Guatemala, the country was very much under the thumbs of United Fruit company. The big international cooperations and Arbenz ran on this ticket that said: “We want to give the land back to the people”. And once he took power he was implementing policies that would do exactly that... give the land rights back to the people.

“United Fruit” didn't like that very much, and so they hired a public relations firm to hatch the huge campaign in the United States to convince the United States, the people...the citizens of the United States, the press of the United States and the congress of the United States, that Arbenz was a soviet puppet.

And that if we allowed him to stay in power the Soviets would have a foot hold in this hemisphere. And at that point in time there was a huge fear on everybody's mind, of the Red terror, the Communist terror.

And so, to make a long story short, out of this public relations campaign came a commitment on the part of the CIA and the military to take this man out. And in fact, we did! We sent in planes, we sent in soldiers, we sent in jackals, we sent everything in to take him out. And did take him out and as soon as he was removed from office, the new guy, that took over after him basically reinstated everything to the big international corporations. Including United Fruit.

Ecuador, for many many years had been ruled by Pro-US-Dictators and they were often relatively brutal. Then it was decided to have a truly democratic election. Jaime Roldos ran for office and his main goal , he said, as president would be..... to make sure that Ecuador's resources were used to help the people.

And he won! Overwhelming. By more votes than anybody had ever won anything in Ecuador. And he began to implement these policies. To make sure that the profits from Oil went to help the people.

Well... We didn't like that in the United States. I was sent down as one of several Economic Hitman to change Roldos. To corrupt him. To bring him around... to let him know... you know.

“OK, You can get very rich, if you and your family play our game.”

“But if you continue to try to keep these policies you promised... ah... You gonna go!”

IMITATION OF LIFE

He wouldn't listen...

He was assassinated.

As soon as the plane crashed, the whole area was cordoned off. The only people allowed in were US military from a nearby base, and some of the Ecuadorian military. When an investigation was launched, two of the key witnesses died in car accidents before they had a chance to testify.

A lot of very very strange things that went on around the assassination of Jaime Roldos. I like most people who have really looked at this case have absolutely no doubt that it was an assassination.

And of course in my position as an economic hitman I was obviously expecting something to happen to Jaime, whether it be a coup or assassination I wasn't sure, but that he would be taken down because he was not being corrupted, he would not allow himself to be corrupted the way we wanted to corrupt him.

Omar Torrijos, president of Panama was, you know, one of my favorite people. I really, really liked him. He was very charismatic. He was a guy who really wanted to help his country. And when I tried to bribe him or corrupt him he said Look John...He called my Juanito. Look Juanito, I dont need the money.

What I really need is for my country to be treated fairly. I need for the United States to repay the debts that you owe my people for all the destruction you've done here. I need to be in a position where I can help other Latin American countries win their independence, and be free of this terrible presence from the north. You people are exploiting us so badly.

I need to have the Panama canal back in the hands of the Panamanian people. That's what I want. And so, leave me alone, don't try to bribe me.

It was 1981 and in May, Jaime Roldos was assassinated. And Omar was very aware of this. Torrijos got his family together and said I'm probably next, but its okay because I've done what I came here to do. I've renegotiated the canal. The canal will now be in our hands.

He'd just finished negotiating the treaty with Jimmy Carter. In June of that same year, just a couple of months later, he also went down in an airplane crash. Which there is no question, was executed by CIA sponsored jackals.

A tremendous amount of evidence that one of Torijjos security guards handed him at the last moment as he was getting on the plane a tape recorder. A small tape recorder that contained a bomb.

It is interesting to me how this system has continued pretty much the same way for years and years and years, except the economic hit men have gotten better and better and better.

Then we come up with very recently what happened in Venezuela. In 1998,

IMITATION OF LIFE

Hugo Chavez gets elected president, following a long line of presidents that have been very corrupt and basically destroyed the economy of the country. And Chavez was elected amidst all that.

Chavez stood up to the United States, and he'd done it primarily by demanding that Venezuelan oil be used to help the Venezuelan people. Well we didn't like that in the United States.

So in 2002, a coup was staged which was no question in my mind, in most other peoples minds, that the CIA was behind that coup. The way that that coup was fomented was very reflective of what Kermit Roosevelt had done in Iran. Of paying people to go out into the streets, to riot, to protest, to say that Chavez was very unpopular. You know, if you can get a few thousand people to do that, Television can make it look like it is the whole country and things start to mushroom.

Except in the case of Chavez, he was smart enough and the people were so strongly behind him that they overcame it. Which was a phenomenal moment in the history of Latin America. Iraq actually is a perfect example of the way the whole system works.

We economic hitmen are the first line of defense. We go in, we try to corrupt governments and get them to try to accept these huge loans which we then use as leverage, to basically own them. If we fail, as I failed in Panama with Omar Torrijos, and Ecuador with Jaime Roldos, men who refused to be corrupted, then the second line of defense is we send in the jackals.

And the jackals either overthrow governments or they assassinate. And once that happens then a new government comes in and boy its gonna toe the line because the new president knows what will happen if he doesn't.

In the case of Iraq, both of those things failed. The economic hitmen were not able to get through to Saddam Hussein. We tried very hard. We tried to get him to accept a deal very similar to what the House of Saud had accepted in Saudi Arabia, but he wouldn't accept it.

And so the jackals went in to take him out. They couldn't do it. His security was very good. After all, he at one time had worked for the CIA. He'd been hired to assassinate the former president of Iraq, and failed, but he knew the system.

So in '91 we send in the troops and we take out the Iraqi military. So we assume at that point that Saddam Hussein is gonna come around. We could have taken him out, of course, at that time, but we didn't want to. He's the kind of strong man we like. He controls his people. We thought he could control the Kurds, keep the Iranians in their border, and keep pumping oil for us.

And that once we took out his military, now he's gonna come around. So the economic hitmen get back in in the 90s without success.

If they'd had success he'd still be running the country. We'd be selling him all the fighter jets he wants, and everything else he wants, but they couldn't, they didn't have success. The jackals couldn't take him out again, so we sent the military in once again and this time we did the complete job and took him out.

IMITATION OF LIFE

And in the process created for ourselves some very very lucrative construction deals to reconstruct a country that we'd essentially just destroyed. Which is a pretty good deal if you own a construction companies, big ones.

So Iraq shows the three stages. The economic hitmen failed there. The jackals failed there. And as a final measure the military goes in. And in that way we've really created an empire, but we've done it very very subtly.

Its clandestine. All empires of the past were built on the military, and everybody knew they were building them. The British knew they were building them, the French, the Germans, the Romans, the Greeks and they were proud of it. They always had some excuse like spreading civilization, spreading some religion, something like that, but they knew they were doing it. We don't.

The majority of the people in the United States have no idea that we're living off the benefits of the clandestine empire. That today there is more slavery in the world than ever before. Then you have to ask yourself, well if its an empire, then who is the emperor?

Obviously our presidents of the United States are not emperors. An emperor is someone who is not elected, doesn't serve a limited term, and doesn't report to anyone, essentially. So you can't classify our presidents that way.

But we do have what I consider to be the equivalent of the emperor, and its what I call the Corporatocracy. The Corporatocracy is this group of individuals who run our biggest corporations. And they really act as the emperor of this empire. They control our media, either through direct ownership or advertising.

They control most of our politicians because they finance their campaigns, either through the corporations or through personal contributions that come out of the corporations. They're not elected, then don't serve a limited term, they don't report to anybody, and at the very top of the Corporatocracy you really cant tell whether the person is working for a private corporation or the government because they're always moving back and forth.

So you've got a guy who is one moment is the president of a big construction company like Haliburton, and the next moment he's Vice President of the United States. Or the President who was in the oil business. And this is true whether you get Democrats or Republicans in the office. You have this moving back and forth, through the revolving door. And in a way, our government is invisible a lot of the time, and policies are carried out by our corporations on one level or another.

And then again, the policies of the government are basically forged by the Corporatocracy, and then presented to the government and they become government policy. So, there is an incredibly cozy relationship. This isn't a conspiracy theory type of thing. These people don't have to get together and plot to do things.

IMITATION OF LIFE

They all basically work under one primary assumption, and that is that they must maximize profits regardless of the social and environmental costs. This process of manipulation by the corporatocracy through the use of debt, bribery and political overthrow is called: Globalization.

Just as the Federal Reserve keeps the American public in a position of indentured servitude, through perpetual debt, inflation and interest the World Bank and IMF serve this role on a global scale. The basic scam is simple: Put a country in debt and you divide by indigestion - or through corrupting the leader of that country - then impose "conditionalities" or "structural adjustment policies" often consisting of the following:

Currency devaluation. When the value of a currency drops, so does everything valued in it. This makes indigenous resources available to predator countries at a fraction of their worth.

Large funding cuts for social programs, these usually include education and healthcare, compromising the well-being and integrity of the society leaving the public vulnerable to exploitation.

Privatization of state-owned enterprises. This means that socially important systems can be purchased and regulated by foreign corporations for profit. For example in 1999 the World Bank insisted that the Bolivian government sell the public water system of its third-largest city to a subsidiary of the US-corporation "Bechtel".

As soon as this occurred water bills for the already impoverished local residents skyrocketed. It wasn't until after full-blown revolt by the people that the Bechtel contract was nullified.

Then there is trade liberalization or the opening up of the economy through removing any restrictions on foreign trade. This allows for a number of abusive economic manifestations, such as transnational corporations bringing in their own mass-produced products undercutting the indigenous production and ruining local economies.

An example is Jamaica, which after accepting loans and conditionalities from the World Bank lost its largest cash crop markets due to competition with western imports. Today countless farmers are out of work for they're unable to compete with the large corporations. Another variation is the creation of numerous, seemingly unnoticed, unregulated, inhuman sweatshop factories, which take advantage of the imposed economic hardship.

Additionally, due to production-deregulation, environmental destruction is perpetual as a country's resources are often exploited by the indifferent corporations while outputting large amounts of deliberate pollution.

The largest environmental lawsuit in the history of the world today is being brought on behalf of 30,000 Ecuadorian and Amazonian people against Texaco, which is now owned by Chevron so it's against Chevron, but for activities conducted by Texaco.

IMITATION OF LIFE

They're estimated to be more than 18 times what the Exxon Valdez dumped into the Coast of Alaska. In the case of Ecuador it wasn't an accident. The oil companies did it intentionally; they knew they were doing it to save money rather than arranging for proper disposal.

Furthermore, a cursory glance at the performance record of the World Bank reveals that the institution, which publicly claims to help poor countries develop and alleviate poverty, has done nothing but increase poverty and the wealth-gap, while corporate profits soar.

In 1960 the income-gap between the fifth of the world's people and the richest countries, versus the fifth in the poorest countries was thirty to one. By 1998, it was seventy-four to one. While global GNP rose 40% between 1970 and 1985, those in poverty actually increased, by 17%. While from 1985 to 2000, those living on less than one dollar a day increased by 18%.

Even the Joint Economic Committee of the U.S. Congress admitted that there is a mere 40% success rate of all World Bank projects. In the late 1960's, the World Bank intervened in Ecuador with large loans. During the next 30 years, poverty grew from 50% to 70%. Under or unemployment grew from 15% to 70%. Public debt increased from 240 million to 16 billion, while the share of resources allocated to the poor went from 20% to 6%.

In fact, by the year 2000, 50% of Ecuador's national budget had to be allocated for paying its debts. It is important to understand: the World Bank is, in fact, a U.S. bank, supporting U.S. interests. For the United States holds veto-power over decisions, as it is the largest provider of capital. And where did it get this money? You guessed it: it made it out of thin air through the fractional reserve banking system.

Of the world's top 100 economies, as based on annual GDP, Walmart, General Motors, and Exxon, are more economically powerful than Saudi Arabia, Poland, Norway, South Africa, Finland, Indonesia, and many others. And, as protective trade-barriers are broken down, currencies tossed together and manipulated in floating markets, and State economies overturned in favor of competition in global capitalism, the empire expands.

You get up on your little 21 inch screen and howl about America and democracy. There is no America, there is no democracy. There is only IBM, and ITT, and AT&T, and DuPont, Dow, Union Carbide, and Exxon. Those are the nations of the world today.

What do you think the Russians talk about in their counsels of state- Karl Marx? They get out their linear programming charts, statistical decision theories, min and max solutions, and compute the price-cost probabilities of their transactions and investments just like we do.

IMITATION OF LIFE

We no longer live in a world of Nations and Ideologies. The world is a college of corporations, inexorably determined by the immutable bylaws of business. The world is a business. Taken cumulatively, the integration of the world as a whole, particularly in terms of economic globalization and the mythic qualities of “free market” capitalism, represents a veritable “empire” in its own right... Few have been able to escape the “structural adjustments” and “conditionalities” of the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund, or the arbitrations of the World Trade Organization, those international financial institutions that, however inadequate, still determine what economic globalization means...

Such is the power of globalization that within our lifetime we are likely to see the integration, even if unevenly, of all national economies in the world into a single global, free market system.

Jim Garrison, President, State of the World Forum

The World is being taken over by a hand-full of business powers who dominate the natural resources we need to live, while controlling the money we need to obtain these resources. The end result will be world monopoly based not on human life but financial and corporate power. And, as the inequality grows, naturally, more and more people are becoming desperate.

So the establishment was forced to come up with a new way to deal with anyone who challenges the system. So they gave birth to the ‘Terrorist’. The term ‘terrorist’ is an empty distinction designed for any person or group that chooses to challenge the establishment. This isn’t to be confused with the fictional ‘Al Qaida’, which was actually the name of a computer database of the U.S.-supported Mudjahedeen in the 1980’s.

“The truth is, there is no Islamic army or terrorist group called Al Qaida. And any informed intelligence officer knows this. But there is a propaganda campaign to make the public believe in the presence of an identified entity... The country behind this propaganda is the US.”

Pierre-Henry Bunel, Former French Military Intelligence

In 2007, the Department of Defense received 161.8 billion dollars for the so-called global war on terrorism. According to the national counter-terrorism center, in 2004 roughly 2000 people were killed internationally due to supposed terrorist acts. Of that number, 70 were American. Using this number as a general average, which is extremely generous, it is interesting to note that twice as many people die from peanut allergies a year than from terrorist acts.

Concurrently, the leading cause of death in America is coronary heart disease, killing roughly 450,000 each year. And in 2007, the government’s allocation of funds for research on this issue was about three billion dollars. This means, that the US government, in 2007, spent 54 times the amount for preventing terrorism, than it spent for preventing for the disease, which kills tens of thousands, yet, as the name terrorism and Al Qaida are arbitrarily stamped on every news report relating to any action taken against US interests the myth grows wider!

IMITATION OF LIFE

In mid 2008 the "US Attorney General" actually proposed, that the US congress officially declare war against the fantasy not to mention as of July 2008, there are now over 1 million people currently on the US terrorist watch list.

These so called "Counter-Terrorism Measures," of course, had nothing to do with social protection - and everything to do with preserving the establishment against the growing Anti-American sentiment both domestically and internationally which is legitimately founded on the greed based corporate empire expansion that is exploiting the world.

The true terrorists of our world do not meet at the darks at midnight or scream "Allah Akbar" before some violent action. The true terrorists of our world, wear 5,000 dollar suits, and work in the highest positions of finance, government and business.

So, what do we do ? How do we stop a system of greed and corruption, that has so much power and momentum? How do we stop this aberrant group behavior, which feels no compassion for, say, the millions slaughtered in Iraq and Afghanistan so the corporatacracy can control energy resources and opium production for Wall Street profit?

Before 1980, Afghanistan produced 0% of the world's supply of opium.

After the US/CIA backed Mujahideen won the Soviet/Afghan war, by 1986 they were producing 40% of the world's heroin supply.

By 1988, they were producing 80%.

But then, something unexpected happened.

The Taliban rose to power, and by 2000 they had destroyed most of the opium fields.

Production dropped from 3.000+ tons to only 185 tons, a 94% reduction.

On Sept. 9th 2001, the full Afghanistan invasion plans were on President Bush's Desk. Two days later they had their excuse. Today, opium production is in US controlled Afghanistan, which now provides more than 90% of the world's heroin and breaks new production records nearly every year.

How do we stop a system of greed and corruption that condemns poor populations to "Sweatshop-Slavery" for the benefit of Madison Avenue? Or that engineers false-flag terror attacks for the sake of manipulation? Or that generates "Built-in-Modes" of social operation, which are inherently exploited. Or that systematically reduces civil liberties, and violates human rights in order to protect it self from it's own shortcomings.

IMITATION OF LIFE

How do we deal with the numerous covert institutions? Such as the Council on Foreign Relations? The Trilateral Commission and the Bilderberg Group and other undemocratically elected groups which behind closed doors collude to control the political, financial, social and environmental elements of our lives.

In order to find the answer, we must first find the true underlying cause. For the fact is, the selfish, corrupt, power and profit based groups are not the true source of the problem. They are symptoms! Greed and Competition are not the result of immutable human temperament ...greed and fear of scarcity are in fact being created and amplified and the direct consequence is that we have to fight with each other in order to survive.

Jacque Fresco is an industrial designer and a social engineer. He is very much interested in society and developing a system that might be suitable for all people. First of all, the world corruption is a monitory invention, that aberrant behavior, behavior that's destructive for the wellbeing of people, or for dealing with human behavior and human behavior appears to be environmentally determinant; meaning, if you were raised by the Seminole Indians as a baby, never saw anything else you hold that system. And this goes for nations, for individuals, for families. They try to indoctrinate their children to their particular faith in their country and make them feel like their are part of the land and they built a society, which they call established. They established a workable point of view and intend to perpetuate that, whereas all societies are really emergent, not established and so they fight new ideas, that would interfere with the establishment.

Governments try to perpetuate that which keeps them in power. People are not elected to political office to change things. They are put there to keep things the way they are. so you see, the bases of corruption is in our society.

Let me make it clear. All nations then are basically corrupt because they tend to uphold existing institutions. I don't mean to uphold, or downgrade all nations, but communism, socialism, facism, the free enterprise-system and all other sub-cultures are the same; they are all basically corrupt. The most fundamental characteristic of our social institutions is a necessity for Self-Preservation, but they're dealing with the cooperation from of religion or government; the foremost interest is to preserve the institution itself.

For instance, the last thing an oil company would ever want is the utilization of a energy that was outside of its control. For it makes that company less relevant to society. Likewise the cold war and the collapse of the Soviet Union was in reality a way to preserve and perpetuate the established economic and global hegemony of the United States.

Similarly, religions condition people to feel guilty for natural inclinations, each claiming to offer the only path to forgiveness and salvation. At the heart of this institutional self-preservation lies monetary system. For it is money that provides the means for power and survival.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Therefore, just as a poor person might be forced to steal in order to survive, it is a natural inclination to do whatever is needed to continue an institution's profitability. This makes it inherently difficult for profit-based institutions to change, for it puts in jeopardy not only the survival of large groups of people, but also the coveted materialistic lifestyle associated with affluence and power.

Therefore, the paralyzing necessity to preserve an institution, regardless of its social relevance, is largely rooted in the need for money, or profit.

What's in it for me?, is what people think. And so if a man makes money selling a certain product, that's where he's going to fight the existence of another product that may threaten his institution.

Therefore, people cannot be fair. And people do not trust each other. A guy will come over to you and say I've got just the house you're looking for. He's a salesman. When a doctor says I think your kidney has to come out, I don't know if he's trying to pay off a yacht or that my kidney has to come out.

Its hard in a monetary system to trust people. If you came into my store and I said This lamp that I've got is pretty good, but the lamp next door is much better, I wouldn't be in business very long. It wouldn't work. If I were ethical, it wouldn't work. So when you say industry cares for people, that's not true.

They can't afford to be ethical. So your system is not designed to serve the well-being of people. If you still don't understand that there would be no outsourcing of jobs if they cared about people. Industry does not care. They only hire people because it hasn't been automated yet.

So don't talk about decency and ethics, we cannot afford it and remain in business. It is important to point out that regardless of the social system; whether fascist, socialist, capitalist, or communist; the underlying mechanism is still money, labor, and competition.

Communist China is no less capitalistic than the United States. The only difference is the degree by which the state intervenes in enterprise. The reality is that "Monetary-ism", so to speak, is the true mechanism, that guides the interests of all the countries on the planet. The most aggressive and hence dominant variation of this monetary-ism is the free enterprise system.

The fundamental perspective as put forth by early free market economists, like Adam Smith, is that self interest and competition leads to social prosperity, as the act of competition creates incentive, which motivates people to persevere.

However, what isn't talked about, is how a competition based economy invariably leads to strategic corruption, power and wealth consolidation, social stratification, technological paralysis, labor abuse and ultimately a covert form of government dictatorship by the rich elite.

The word "Corruption" is often defined as "moral perversion." If a company dumps toxic waste into the ocean, to save money most people recognize this as “corrupt behavior.” On a more subtle level, when Walmart moves into a small town and forces small businesses to shut down for they are unable to compete, a grey area emerges.

IMITATION OF LIFE

For what exactly is Walmart doing wrong? Why should they care about the Mom and Pop organizations they destroy? Yet even more subtly, when a person gets fired from their job, because a new machine has been created, which can do the work for less money, people tend to just accept that as... “The way it is!”

Not seen the inherent “corrupt inhumanity” of such an action. Because the fact is: whether it is dumping toxic waste, having a monopoly enterprise or downsizing the workforce, the motive is the same! Profit!

They are all different degrees of the same self-preserving mechanism, which always puts the well-being of people second to monetary gain. Therefore, corruption is not some “byproduct” of Monetaryism. It is the very Foundation! And while most people acknowledge this tendency on one level or another, the majority remains naive as to the broad ramifications of having such a selfish mechanism as the guiding mentality in society.

“Internal documents show that after this company positively absolutely knew they had a medication that was infected with the AIDS virus, they took the product off the market in the US, and then they dumped it in France, Europe, Asia and Latin America.

The US government allowed it to happen. The FDA allowed this to happen, and now the government is completely looking the other way. Thousands of innocent hemophiliacs have died from the AIDS virus. This company knew absolutely that it was infected with AIDS, they dumped it because they wanted to turn this disaster into a profit.”

So you see, you have built-in corruption. We’re all chiseling off each other, and you can’t expect decency in that sort of thing. a feeling that they don’t know who to elect. They think in terms of a democracy, which is not possible in a monetary based economy. If you have more money to advertise your position, the position you desire in government, that isn’t a democracy.

It serves those in positions of differential advantage. So it is always a dictatorship of the elitist, the financially wealthy. We can either have democracy in this country or we can have great wealth concentrated in the hands of a few, but we can’t have both.

Louis Brandeis, Supreme Court Justice

It is an interesting observation to note how seemingly unknown personalities magically appear on the scene as presidential candidates. Then before you know it, somehow you are left to choose from a small group of extremely wealthy people who suspiciously have the same broad social view.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Obviously it is a joke.

The people placed on the ballot are done so because they have been pre-decided to be acceptable by the established financial powers who actually run the show. Yet many who understand this illusion of democracy, often think: if only we could just get our honest, ethical politicians in power, then we would be okay. Well, while this idea seems reasonable in our established oriented world view, it is unfortunately another fallacy.

For when it really comes down to what is actually important, the institution of politics and thus politicians themselves, have absolutely no true relevance as to what makes our world and society function.

Its not politicians who can solve problems. They have no technical capabilities. They don't know how to solve problems. Even if they were sincere, they don't know how to solve problems. Many of them cannot even write above a third grade level. It is the technicians that produce the desalinization plants. It is the technicians that give you electricity. That give you motor vehicles. That heat your house, and cool it in the summer time. It is technology that solves problems, not politics. Politics cannot solve problems cause they are not trained to do so.

Very few people today stop and consider what it is that actually improves their lives. Is it money? Obviously not. One cannot eat money, or stuff money into their car to get it to run.

It is politics? All politicians can do is create laws, more poverty, establish budgets, and declare war.

Is it religion? Of course not, religion creates nothing except intangible emotional solace for those who require it.

The true gift that we as human beings have, which has been solely responsible for everything that has improved our lives, is technology.

What is technology? Technology is a pencil, which allows one to solidify ideas on paper for communication. Technology is an automobile, which allows one to travel faster than feet would allow. Technology is a pair of eye glasses, which enables improved sight for those who need it.

Applied technology itself is merely an extension of human attributes, which reduces human effort, freeing humans from a particular chore or problem.

Imagine what your life would be like today without a telephone, or an oven, or a computer, or an airplane. Everything in your home, which you take for granted; from a doorbell, to a table, to a dishwasher is technology generated from the creative scientific ingenuity of human technicians.

Not money, politics, or religion. These are false institutions. and writing your congressman is mere fantasy. They tell you, Write your congressman if you want something done. The men in Washington should be at the forefront of technology. The forefront of human study. The forefront of crime. All the factors that shape human behavior.

IMITATION OF LIFE

You don't have to write your congressman. What kind of people are they that are appointed to do that job? The future will have great difficulty and the question that's raised by politicians is: How much will a project cost? The question is not: How much will it cost?, but: Do we have the resources? And we have the resources today to a house for everyone, build hospitals all over the world, build schools all over the world, the finest equipment in labs for teaching and doing medical research.

So you see, we have all that, but we're in a monetary system, and in a monetary system there's profit. And what is the fundamental mechanism that drives the profit system besides self-interest?

What is it exactly that maintains that competitive edge at its core? Is it high efficiency and sustainability? No. That isn't part of their design. Nothing produced in our profit based society is even remotely sustainable or efficient.

If it was, there wouldn't be a multi-million dollar a year service industry for automobiles. Nor would the average lifespan for electronics be less than three months before they're obsolete. Is it abundance? Absolutely not.

Abundance, as based on the laws of supply and demand, is actually a negative thing. If a diamond company finds ten times the usual amount of diamonds during their mining, it means the supply of diamonds has increased, which means the cost and profit per diamond drops. The fact is; efficiency, sustainability, and abundance are the enemies of profit. To put it into a word, it is the mechanism of scarcity that increases profits.

What is scarcity? It is based on keeping products valuable. Slowing up production on oil raises the price. Maintaining scarcity of diamonds keeps the price high. They burn diamonds at the Kimberly Diamond Mine. They're made of carbon. That keeps the price up. So then, what does it mean for society when scarcity, either produced naturally or through manipulation is a beneficial condition for industry? It means that sustainability and abundance will never ever occur in a profit system. For it simply goes against the very nature of the structure.

Therefore, it is impossible to have a world without war, or poverty. It is impossible to continually advance technology to its most efficient and productive states. And most dramatically, it is impossible to expect human beings to behave in truly ethical or decent ways.

People use the word instinct because they can't account for certain behavior. They sit back and they evaluate with their lack of knowledge, and they say things like: Humans are built a certain way. Greed is a natural thing, as though they'd worked for years on it. And its no more natural than wearing clothing.

What we want to do is to eliminate the causes of the problems. Eliminate the processes that produce greed, and bigotry, and prejudice, and people taking advantage of one another, and elitism. Eliminating the need for prisons and welfare.

IMITATION OF LIFE

We have always had these problems because we have always lived within scarcity, and barter, and monetary systems that produce scarcity. If you eradicate the conditions that generate what you call socially offensive behavior, it does not exist.

A guy says Well listen, are they in-born? No its not! There is no human nature, there's human behavior, and that's always been changed throughout history. You're not born with bigotry, and greed, and corruption, and hatred. You pick that up within the society. war, poverty, corruption, hunger, misery; human suffering will not change in a monetary system.

That is, there'll be very little significant change. It is going to take the redesigning of our culture, our values, and it has to be related to the carrying capacity of the earth, not some human opinion or some politician's notions of the way the world ought to be. Or some religions notion of the conduct of human affairs.

When we understand that it is technology devised by human ingenuity which frees humanity and increases our quality of life we then realize that the most important focus we can have is on the intelligent management of the earth's resources, for it is from these natural resources that we gain the materials to continue our path of prosperity.

Understanding this we then see that money fundamentally exists as a barrier to these resources for virtually everything has a financial cost. And why do we need money to obtain these resources? Because of real or assumed scarcity. We don't usually pay for air and tap water, because it is in such high abundance, selling it would be pointless.

So then, logically speaking, if resources and technologies, applicable to creating everything in our societies such as houses, cities and transportation, were in high enough abundance, there would be no reason to sell anything.

Likewise, if automation and machinery was so technologically advanced, as to relieve human beings of labor there would be no reason to have a job. And with these social aspects taken care of, there would be no reason to have money at all. So the ultimate question remains: Do we on earth have enough resources and technological understanding to create a society of such abundance, that everything we have now could be available without a price tag and without the need for submission through employment

Yes, we do! We have the resources and technology to enable this at a minimum, along with the ability to raise the standard of living so high that people in the future will look back at our civilization now and be astonished at how primitive and immature our society was.

We've never given scientists the problem of how do you design a society that would eliminate boring and monotonous jobs, that would eliminate accidents in transportation, that would enable people to have a high standard of living, that would eliminate poisons in our food, give us other sources of energy, that are clean and efficient.

IMITATION OF LIFE

A RESOURCE BASED ECONOMY

The major difference between a resource based economy and a monetary system is that a resource based economy is really concerned with people and their well-being where the monetary system has become so distorted that the concerns of the people are really secondary, if they're considered at all.

The products that are turned out are for how much money you can get. If there is a problem in society and you can't earn money from solving that problem, then it won't be done. The resource based economy is really not close to anything that's been tried. And with all our technology today we can create abundance. It could be used to improve everyone's lifestyle.

At present we don't have to burn fossil fuels. We don't have to use anything that would contaminate the environment. There are many sources of energy available. Alternative energy solutions pushed by the establishment, such as hydrogen, biomass and even nuclear are highly insufficient, dangerous and exist only to perpetuate the profit-structure the industry has created.

When we look beyond the propaganda and self-serving solutions put forth by the energy companies we find a seemingly endless stream of clean abundant and renewable energy for generating power.

Solar and wind energy are well known to the public. But the true potential of these mediums remains unexpressed. Solar energy derived from the sun has such abundance that one hour of light at high noon contains more energy than what the entire world consumes in a year.

If we could capture 1/100 of this energy the world would never have to use oil, gas or anything else. The question is not availability but the technology to harness it and there are many advanced mediums today which could accomplish just that. If they were not hindered by the need to compete for market share with the established energy power structures.

Then there's wind energy. Wind energy has long been denounced as weak and, due to being location driven, impractical. This is simply not true. The US department of energy admitted in 2007 that if wind was fully harvested in just three of Americas 50 states it could power the entire nation.

And there are the rather unknown mediums of tidal and wave power. Tidal power is derived from tidal shifts in the ocean. Installing turbines which capture this movement generates energy. In the United Kingdom 42 sites are currently noted as available. Forecast is that 34% of all the UK's energy could come from tidal power alone.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Wave power, which extracts energy from the surface motions of the oceans is estimated to have a global potential of up to 80,000 terawatt-hours a year. This means 50% of the entire planet's energy usage could be produced from this medium alone. Now, it is important to point out that tidal, wave, solar and wind power requires virtually no preliminary energy to harness, unlike coal, oil, gas, biomass, hydrogen and all the others.

In combination these four mediums alone, if efficiently harnessed through technology, could power the world forever. That being said, there happens to be another form of clean renewable energy, which trumps them all.

Geothermal power. Geothermal energy utilizes what is called "heat mining," which, through a simple process using water, is able to generate massive amounts of clean energy. The total energy consumption of all the countries on the planet is about half of a zetajoule a year. This means about 4,000 years of planetary power could be harnessed in this medium alone and when we understand that the earth's heat generation is constantly renewed, this energy is really limitless. It could be used forever!

These energy sources are only a few of the clean renewable mediums available and as time goes on we will find more. The grand realization is that we have total energy abundance without the need for pollution, traditional conservation or, in fact, a price tag!

And what about transportation? The prevailing means of transportation in our societies is by automobile and aircraft, both of which predominantly need fossil fuels to run. In the case of the automobile, the battery technology needed to power an electric car that can go over a hundred miles and hour for over two hundred miles on one charge, exists and has existed for many years.

However, due to battery patents, controlled by the oil industry, which limits their ability to maintain market share, coupled with political pressure from the energy industry, the accessibility and affordability of these technologies is limited.

There is absolutely no reason, other than pure, corrupt profit interests, that every single vehicle in the world cannot be electric, and utterly clean, with zero need for gasoline. As far as airplanes, it is time we realized that this means of travel is inefficient, cumbersome, slow and causes far too much pollution.

The mag-lev train. It uses magnets for propulsion. It is fully suspended by a magnetic field and requires less than two percent of the energy used for plane travel. The train has no wheels, so nothing can wear out. The current maximum speed of versions of this technology, as used in Japan, is 361 miles per hour.

However this version of the technology is very dated. An organization called ET3, has established a two-based mag-lev that can travel up to 4,000 miles per hour in a motionless frictionless tube which can go over land or under water.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Imagine going from L.A to New York for an extended lunch break or from Washington D.C. to Beijing, China, in two hours. This is the future of continental and intercontinental travel. Fast, clean, with only a fraction of the energy we use today for the same means. In fact, between mag-lev technology, advanced battery storage and geothermal energy there will be no reason to ever burn fossil fuel again.

And we can do this now, if we were not held back by the paralyzing profit structure. Now America is inclined towards fascism. It has a propensity by its dominant philosophy and religion to uphold to fascist point of view. American industry is essentially a fascist institution. If you don't understand that, the minute you punch that time clock you awoke into a dictatorship.

We are given notions about the respectability of work. And I really look at it as being paid slavery. You're brought up to believe that you shall earn your living by the sweat of your brow. That holds people back. Freeing people from drudgery, repetitive jobs which make them ignorant, you rob them.

In our society, that is a resourced based economy, machines free people. You see, we can't imagine that because we never known that kind of world. If we look back at history, we see a very clear pattern of machine automation slowly replacing human labour. From the disappearance of the elevator man to the near full automation of an automobile production plant.

The fact is, as technology grows the need for humans in the work force will continuously be diminished. This creates a serious clash, which proves the falseness of the monetary based labour system.

For human employment is in direct competition with technological development. Therefore, given the fundamental priority of profit by industry, people through time will be continually layed off and replaced by machine. When industry takes on a machine instead of shortening the work day, they downsize. You loose your job so you have a right to fear machines.

In a high technology resourced based economy, it is conservative to say that about 90% of all current occupations could be phased out by machines. Freeing humans to live their life without servitude. For this is the point of technology itself. And through time with nano technology and other highly advanced forms of science it is not farfetched to see how even complex medical procedures could be performed by machines as well. And based on the pattern with much higher success rates than humans get today.

The path is clear but our monetary based structure which requires labour for income blocks this progress. Humans need jobs in order to survive. The bottom line is that this system must go or we will never be free and technology will be constantly paralyzed. We have machines that clean out sewers and free human being from doing that. So look at machines as extensions of human performance.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Furthermore, many occupations today will have simply no reason to exist in a resourced based economy. Such as anything associated with the management of money, advertising, along with a legal system itself. For without money, a great majority of the crimes that are committed today would never occur.

Virtually all forms of crimes are consequence in the monetary system, either directly or by neurosis inflicted through financial deprivation. Therefore, laws themselves could eventually become extinct.

Instead of putting up a sign "drive carefully slippery when wet" put a abrasive on the highway so it is not slippery when wet. And when a person gets in car that drunk and a car oscillates a great deal there's a little pendulum that swings up and back and that will pull the car over to the side - not a law. Solution.

Put sonar and radar on automobiles so they can't collide. Man-made laws are attempts to deal with occurring problems and, not knowing how to solve them, they make a law.

In the United States, the most privatized, capitalist country on the planet, it shall come as no surprise that it also has the largest prison population in the world - growing every year. Statistically, most of these people are uneducated and come from poor, deprived societies.

And contrary to propaganda, it is this environmental conditioning, which lures them into criminal and violent behavior. However society looks the other way in regard to this point. The legal and prison systems are just more examples of how our society avoids examining the root-causes of behavior.

Billions are wasted each year on prisons and police, while only a fraction is spent on programs for poverty, which is one of the most fundamental variables responsible for crime to begin with. And, as long as we have an economic system, which prefers, and in fact creates, scarcity and deprivation, crime will never go away.

If people have access to the necessities of life without servitude, debt, barter, trade; they behave very differently. You want all this things available without a price tag Now then, you've gotta have a price tag. What will motivate people?

Men gets just everything what he wants, he's just lay around in the sun. This is the myth they perpetuate. People in our culture are trained to believe that the monetary system produces incentive: If they have access to all things, why should they want to do anything? They would loose their incentive. That's what you're taught to support the monetary system.

When you take money out of the scenerio, there would be different incentives, very different incentives. When people have access to the necessities of life, their incentives change.

What about the moon and the stars?

New incentives arise. If you make a painting that you enjoy, you will enjoy giving it to other people - not selling it. I think most of the education that I've seen today, is essentially producing a robot for a job. It's very specialized. They're not generalists. People don't know a lot about a lot of different subjects.

IMITATION OF LIFE

I don't think you could get people to go to war, if they knew a lot about a lot of things. I think education is mostly rote and they're not taught how to solve problems, they're not given the tools, emotionally or within their own field, of how to do critical thinking.

In a resource based economy, the education would be very different. Our society's major concern is mental development and to motivate each person to their highest potential. Because our philosophy is the smarter people are people are the rich of the world because everybody becomes a contributor. The smarter your kids are, the better my life will be. Because they'll be contributing more constructively to the environment and to my life.

Because everything that we devise with a resource based economy would be applied to society. There would be nothing to hold it back. Patriotism, weapons, armies, navies, all that is a sign that we're not civilized yet.

Kids will ask their parents: Didn't you see the necessity of the machines? Dad, couldn't you see, that war was inevitable when you produce scarcity, when you produce scarcity? Isn't it obvious?

Of course, the kid will understand that you're pinheads - raised merely to serve the established institutions. We're such an abominable, sick society that we won't make the history books. They'll just say that large nations took land from smaller nations, used force and violence. You'll get history talked about as corrupt behavior all the way along until the beginning of the civilized world. That's when all the nations work together.

World unification, working toward common good for all human beings and without anyone being subservient to anyone else. Without social stratification whether it be technical elitism or any other kind of elitism, eradicated from the face of the earth. The state does nothing because there is no state. The system advocated, a resource based global economy is not perfect, it is just a lot better than what we have.

We can never achieve perfection. My country is the world and my religion is to do good.

Thomas Paine, 1737-1809

The values of our society, which has manifested in perpetual warfare, corruption, oppressive laws, social stratification, irrelevant superstitions, environmental destruction, and a despotic socially indifferent profit oriented ruling class is fundamentally the result of a collective ignorance of two of the most basic insights humans can have about reality: the emergent and symbiotic aspects of natural law.

IMITATION OF LIFE

The emergent nature of reality is that all systems, whether it is knowledge, society, technology, philosophy, or any other creation will, when uninhibited, undergo fluid perpetual change. What we consider commonplace today such as modern communication and transportation, would have been unimaginable in ancient times.

Likewise, the future will contain technologies, realizations, and social structures that we cannot even fathom in the present. We have gone from alchemy to chemistry, from a geocentric universe to a heliocentric from believing that demons were the cause of illness to modern medicine.

This development shows no sign of ending, and it is this awareness that aligns us and leads us on a continuous path to growth and progress. Static empirical knowledge does not exist, rather it is the insight of the emergence of all systems we must recognize.

This means we must be open to new information at all times, even if it threatens our current belief system, and hence, identities. Sadly society today has failed to recognize this, and the established institutions continue to paralyze growth by preserving outdated social structures.

Simultaneously, the population suffers from a fear of change. For their conditioning assumes a static identity and challenging one's belief system, usually results in insult and apprehension. For being wrong is erroneously associated with failure. When, in fact, to be proven wrong should be celebrated.

For it is elevating someone to a new level of understanding, furthering awareness. The fact is, there is no such thing as a smart human being, for it is merely a matter of time before their ideas are updated, changed, or eradicated. And this tendency to blindly hold on to a belief system, sheltering it from new, possibly transforming information is nothing less than a form of intellectual materialism.

The monetary system perpetuates this materialism not only by its self-preserving structures, but also through the countless number of people who have been conditioned into blindly and thoughtlessly upholding these structures, therefore becoming self-appointed guardians of the status quo.

Sheep which no longer need a sheep-dog to control them. For they control each other by ostracizing those who step out of the norm. tendency to resist change and uphold existing institutions for the sake of identity, comfort, power and profit is completely unsustainable; and will only produce further imbalance, fragmentation, distortion, and very invariably destruction.

It is time to change. From hunters and gatherers, to the agricultural revolution, to the industrial revolution, the pattern is clear. It is time for a new social system which reflects the understandings we have today. The monetary system is a product of a period of time when scarcity was a reality.

Now with the age of technology it is no longer relevant to society. Gone with the aberrant behavior it manifests. Likewise, dominant world views such as theistic religion operate with the same social irrelevancy. Islam, Christianity, Judaism, Hinduism and all of the others exist as barriers to personal and social growth. For each group perpetuates a closed world view. And this finite understanding that they acknowledge is simply not possible in an emergent universe.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Yet religion has succeeded in shutting down the awareness of this emergence by instilling the psychological distortion of faith upon its followers where logic and new information is rejected in favor of traditionalized outdated beliefs. The concept of god is really a method of accounting for the nature of things.

In the early days people didn't know enough about how things formed, how nature worked. So they invented their own little stories, and the made god in their own image.

A guy who gets angry when people don't behave right. He creates floods, and earthquakes, and they say its and act of god. A cursory glance at the suppressed history of religion reveals that even the foundational myths themselves are emergent culminations developed through influence over time.

For example a cardinal doctrine of the Christian faith is the death and resurrection of Christ. This notion is so important that the Bible itself states And if Christ be not risen then is our preaching vain and your faith is also vain Yet it is very difficult to take this account literally, for not only is there no primary source denoting this supernatural event in secular history, awareness of the enormous number of pre-Christian saviors who also died and were resurrected immediately puts this story in mythological territory by association.

Early church figures such as Tertullian went to great lengths to break these associations, even claiming that the devil caused the similarities to occur. Stating in the second century, "The devil, whose business is to pervert the truth, mimics the exact circumstances of the Divine Sacraments. He baptizes his believers and promises forgiveness of sins, he celebrates the oblation of bread, and brings in the symbol of the resurrection."

Let us therefore acknowledge the craftiness of the devil, who copied certain things of those that be Divine. What is truly sad however, is that when we cease the idea that the stories from Christianity, Judaism, Islam and all the others are literal history, and accept them for what they really are, which are purely allegorical expressions derived from many faiths, we see that all religions share a common thread. And it is this unifying imperative that needs to be recognized and appreciated. Religious belief has caused more fragmentation and conflict than any other ideology.

Christianity alone has over 34,000 different subgroups. The Bible is subject to interpretation. When you read it, you say I think Jesus meant this. I think Job meant that. Oh No! He meant this. So you have the Lutheran, the Seventh-day Adventist, the Catholic, and a church divided is no church at all. And this point on division, which is a trademark on all theistic religions brings us to our second failure of awareness. The false assumption of separation through the rejection of the symbiotic relationship of life.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Apart from the understanding that all natural systems are emergent, where all notions of reality will be constantly developed, altered, and even eradicated; we must also understand that all systems are in fact invented fragments merely for sake of conversation. For there is no such thing as independence in nature.

The whole of nature is a unified system of interdependent variables, each a cause and a reaction, existing only as a concentrated whole. You don't see the plug to connect to the environment, so it looks like we're free wandering around.

Take the oxygen away, we all die immediately. Take plant life away, we die. And without the sun, all the plants die. So we are connected. We really must take into account the totality. This isn't just a human experience on this planet, this is a total experience. And we know we can't survive without plants and animals.

We know we can't survive without the four elements, you know? And so, when are we really going to start taking that into account? That's what it is to be successful. Success depends on how well we relate to everything around us.

I'm very aware of the fact that my grandson cannot possible hope to inherit a sustainable, peaceful, stable, socially just world unless every child today growing up today in Ethiopia, in Indonesia, in Bolivia, in Palestine, in Israel also has that same expectation. You must take care of the whole community or you're going to have serious problems. And now we have to see that the whole world is the community.

And we must all take care of each other that way. And its not just a community of human beings, a community of plants and animals and elements. And we really need to understand that. Thats what's going to bring us joy too, and pleasure.

That's what's missing in our lives right now. We can call it spirituality, but the fact of the matter is joy comes from that bliss of connectedness. That's our god spirit. That's that side of ourselves that really feels it, and you can feel it deep inside you. Its this amazing wonderful feeling, and you know it when you get it.

I believe that unarmed truth and unconditional love will have the final word in reality.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr, 1929-1968

Once we understand that the integrity of our personal existences are completely dependent on the integrity of everything else in our world, we have truly understood the meaning of unconditional love. For love is extensionality and seeing everything as you and you as everything can have no conditionalities, for in fact, we are all everything at once.

IMITATION OF LIFE

If its true that were all from the center of a star, every atom on each of us from the center of a star, then were all the same thing. Even a Coke machine or a cigarette butt in the street in buffalo is made out of atoms that came from a star. They've all been recycled thousands of times, as have you and I. And therefore, its only me out there. So what is there to be afraid of? What is there that needs solace seeking? Nothing. There's nothing to be afraid of because its all us.

The trouble is we have been separated by being born and given a name and an identity and being individuated. We've been separated from the oneness, and that's what religion exploits. That people have this yearning to be part of the overall one again. So they exploit that.

An extraterrestrial visitor examining the differences among human societies would find those differences trivial compared to the similarities. Our lives, our past and our future are tied to the sun, the moon and the stars.

We humans have seen the atoms which constitute all of nature and the forces that sculpted this work. And we, we who embody the local eyes and ears and thoughts and feelings of the cosmos, we have begun at least to wonder about our origins; star stuff contemplating the stars, organized collections of ten billion billion billion atoms, contemplating the evolution of nature, tracing that long path by which it arrived at consciousness here on the planet earth

Our loyalties are to the species and to the planet. We speak for earth. Our obligation to survive and flourish is owed not just to ourselves but also to that cosmos ancient and vast from which we spring! We are one species. We are star stuff harvesting star light.

Its time to claim the unity our outmoded social systems have broken apart, and work together to create a sustainable global society where everyone is taken care of and everyone is truly free.

Your personal beliefs, whatever they may be are meaningless when it comes to the necessities of life. Every human being was born naked, needing warmth, food, water, shelter. Everything else is auxiliary. Therefore, the most important issue at hand is the intelligent management of the Earth's resources.

This can never be accomplished in a monetary system, for the pursuit of profit is the pursuit of self interest and therefore imbalance is inherent. Simultaneously, politicians are useless. For our true problems in life are technical not political. Furthermore, ideologies that separate humanity such as religion need strong reflection in the community in regards to its value, purpose and social relevancy. Hopefully through time religion will loose its materialism and basis in superstition and move into the useful field of philosophy.

The fact is, society today is backwards, with politicians constantly talking about protection and security rather than creation, unity and progress. The US alone now spends about $500 billions dollars annually on defense. That is enough to send every high school senior in America to a four year college.

IMITATION OF LIFE

In the 1940s the Manhattan Project produced the first true weapon of mass destruction. This program employed 130,000 people, at an extreme financial cost. Imagine what our life would be like today if that group of scientists, instead of working on a way of killing people, worked on a way to create a self-sustaining abundant world. Life today would be very very different if that was their goal. Instead of weapons of mass destruction, it is time to unleash something much more powerful.

Weapons of Mass Creation (WMCs). Our true divinity is in our ability to create. And armed with the understanding of the symbiotic connections of life, while being guided by the emergent nature of reality, there is nothing we cannot do or accomplish. Of course, we face strong barriers in the form of established power structures that refuse to change. At the heart of these structures is the monetary system. As explained earlier, the fractional reserve policy is a form of slavery through debt, where it is literally impossible for society to be free. In turn, free market capitalism in the form of free trade, uses debt to imprison the world and manipulate countries into subservience to a handful of large business and political powers.

Apart from these obvious immoralities, the system itself is based on competition, which immediately destroys the possibility of large scale collaborations for the common good, hence paralyzing any attempt at true global sustainability. These financial and corporate structures are now obsolete, and they must be outgrown.

Of course, we can not be naive enough to think that the business and financial elite are going to subscribe to this idea for they will lose power and control. Therefore, peaceful and highly strategic action must be taken. The most powerful course of action is simple. We have to alter our behavior to force the power structure to the will of the people.

WE MUST STOP SUPPORTING THE SYSTEM.

The only way the establishment will change is by our refusal to participate while continuously acknowledging its endless flaws and corruptions. They're not going to give up the monetary system, because of our designs. The system has to fail, and people have to lose confidence in their elected leaders.

If not, I fear the consequences. The trends now indicate that our country is going bankrupt. The probability is our country will move towards a military dictatorship to prevent riots and complete social breakdown.

Once the US breaks down, all the other cultures will undergo similar things. As of now, the world financial system is on the brink of collapse due to its own shortcomings. The comptroller of currencies stated in 2003 that the interest on the US national debt will not be affordable in less than ten years. This theoretically means total bankruptcy for the US economy and its implications for the world are immense.

IMITATION OF LIFE

In turn the fractional reserve based monetary system is reaching its theoretical limits of expansion and the banking failures you are seeing are just the beginning. This is why inflation is skyrocketing, all debt is at record levels and the government and FED are hemorrhaging new money to bailout the corrupt system. For the only way to keep the banks going is by making more money. The only way to make more money is to create more debt and inflation.

It is simply a matter of time before the tables turn and no one is willing to make new loans while defaults grow as people are unable to afford their current loans. Then the expansion of money will stop and contraction will begin on a scale never before seen, ending a century long pyramid scheme. This has already begun. Therefore, we need to expose this financial failure for what it is, using this weakness to our advantage.

Here are some suggestions: One. Expose the banking fraud. Citibank, JP Morgan Chase, and Bank of America are the most powerful controllers within the corrupt Federal Reserve system. Its time to boycott these institutions. If you have a bank account or credit card with any of them, move your money to another bank. If you have a mortgage, refinance with another bank. If you own their stock, sell it. If you work for them, quit. This gesture will express contempt fo the true powers behind the private banking cartel known as the Federal Reserve and create awareness about the fraud of the banking system itself.

Two. Turn off the TV news. Visit the emerging independent news agencies on the internet for your information. CNN, NBC, ABC, FOX and all the others present all news pre-filtered to maintain the status quo. With four corporations owning all major media outlets, objective information is impossible. This is the true beauty of the internet. And the establishment has been losing control because of this free flow of information. We must protect the internet at all times, as it is truly our savior right now.

Three. Don't ever allow yourself, your family, or anyone you know, to ever join the military. This is an obsolete institution now used exclusively for maintaining an establishment that is no longer relevant. US soldiers in Iraq work for US corporations, not the people. Propaganda forces us to believe that war is natural and the military is an honorable institution. Well if war is natural, why are there 18 suicides every single day by American veterans who have post-traumatic stress disorder?'

Four. Stop supporting the energy companies. If you live in a detached house, get off the grid. Investigate every means of making your home self-sustainable with clean energy. Solar, wind, and other renewable energies are now affordable consumer realities, and considering the never ending rising costs of traditional energies, it will likely be a cheaper investment over time. If you drive, get the smallest car you can and consider using one of the many conversion technologies that can enable your car to be a hybrid, electric, or run on anything other than establishment fuels.

IMITATION OF LIFE

Five. Reject the political system. The illusion of democracy is an insult to our intelligence. In a monetary system, there is no such thing as a true democracy, and there never was. We have two political parties owned by the same set of corporate lobbyists. They are placed into their positions by the corporations, with popularity artificially projected by their media. In a system of inherent corruption the change of personnel every couple of years has very little relevance. Instead of pretending that the political game has any true meaning, focus your energy on how to transcend this failed system.

Six. Join the movement. Go to the thezeitgeistmovement.com and help us create the largest mass movement for social change the world has ever seen. We must mobilize and educate everyone about the inherent corruption of our current world system along with the only true sustainable solution, declaring all the natural resources on the planet as common heritage to all people, while informing everyone as to the true state of technology and how we can all be free if the world works together rather than fights.

The choice lies with you. You can continue to be a slave to the financial system and watch the continuous wars, depressions and injustice across the globe while placating yourself with vain entertainment and materialistic garbage; or you can focus your energy on true, meaningful, holistic, lasting change which has the realistic ability to support and free all humans with no one left behind.

But in the end the most relevant change must occur first inside of you. The real revolution is the revolution of consciousness, and each one of us first needs to eliminate the divisive materialistic noise we have been conditioned to think is true; while discovering, amplifying, and aligning with the signal coming from our true empirical oneness. It is up to you.

What we are trying in all these discussions and talks here is to see if we cannot radically bring about a transformation of the mind. Not accept things as they are but to understand it, to go into it, to examine it, give your heart and your mind with every thing that you have to find out. A way of living differently.

But, that depends on you and not somebody else. Because in this there is no teacher, no pupil, there is no leader, no guru, there is no master, no savior.

You are the teacher, and the pupil, you're the master, you're the guru, you are the leader, you are everything! And to understand is to transform what is.